WOMEN VICTIMS IN RIOTS

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 17.—Shoot to defending the property of the Pressed Steel Car Company from the strike mobs.

Rioting and bloodshed is of almost hourly occurrence.

Several women have fallen victims to bullets.

Rumor has it that the strikers have secured a large quantity of dynamite, and will try to blow up the plant if an attempt is made to resume work.

President Hoffstot of the company absolutely refuses to treat with any committee from the strikers. Rioting is liable to be renewed at any minute.

Mr. Hoffstot says that the original 600 men who struck may consider themselves discharged and denies that the firm runs a company store or that the works are more than ordinarily hazardous, notwithstanding ex-Coroner Armstrong's statement.

Lieutenant Smith of the constabulary said to-day: "We are not afraid of the foreigners with their revolvers. They cannot shoot and do not know how to handle a gun. As long as we can keep them from collecting into a great mob and in this manner avoid stone-throwing there will be perfect order and we are going to do this at any cost."

Saloons close to the scene of the trouble on the outskirts of Pittsburg have been closed and patrols established by the Pittsburg authorities to stop any importation of liquors into the affected zone.

That public sympathy is largely with the strikers was attested to-day when a big fund was started for their benefit at a mass meeting on the old Indian Mound. Nearly every strike sympathizer gave from $1 to $5. The meeting is still in progress.

McKee's Rocks is under martial law. One woman, the wife of a striker, was shot and seriously wounded by a State trooper, four injured foreigners were carried away and secreted by friends and twenty arrests were made. The strikers captured trolley cars, turned back river steamers carrying supplies to the works and cut off the plant and stockade from the outside in spite of the charges of the mounted constabulary.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GROUNDS, Cleveland, July 17.—The Red Sox were late in arriving to-day, the run from St. Louis being a long one. But they showed up at the grounds full of pepper, and the fans, of whom there was a large gathering, settled back in their seats when the game began with the feeling that there would be something doing.

Last trip the "Speed Boys" cleaned up here in fine style, but no one believes they will be able to repeat their first performance considering the way the Naps are going at present. With Joss and Young pitching the best ball of their career it will take some luck to beat them.

NEW MANAGER OF DOVES.

Harry Smith, who takes charge of the Boston National team to-day as successor to "Big Mike" Bowerman. Photographed to-day by Boston American photographer.

PATTEN ILL, FLEES TO ESCAPE WHEAT

"Wheat! Wheat! For God's sake, man, I'm going abroad to get away from wheat!"

Ill in body and nervous in mind, George W. Patten, brother of James Patten, the Chicago wheat millionaire, and a member of the firm of James Patten & Co., sailed from Boston on the Leyland liner Winifredian to-day in an effort to get as far away from the Chicago wheat pit as he could. His ideas on wheat are clearly expressed above.

He and his brother have made millions in their notorious wheat corner. George W. Patten has taken some of his share of wheat pit gold and started on a quest for health. He shows the wear and tear of the wheat corner. His face seems lined with care. To reporters he merely refused to talk. But, when a Boston friend spoke to him about wheat, all the suppressed dislike in the man's mind to the mere mention of wheat broke out.

Sails With His Family.

Mr. Patten is accompanied by his wife, his seventeen-year-old daughter, Miss Agnes Patten, and his fourteen-year-old boy, "Jack." Miss Agnes is a blonde, as pretty as a girl can be. Master "Jack" is brimful of energy and very red as to the hair. It kept two maids and three stewards busy watching him as he scrambled all over the boat to see what was going on.

Mr. Patten was asked by a reporter:

"What is the wheat situation in Chicago now?"

"Don't know anything about it," he said.

"Is the high price of July wheat due to actual scarcity or to speculation?"

"Don't know anything about it?"

Asked if he would allow photographs to be snapped of himself and his family he fairly shouted:

"No!" and bolted into the saloon.

Outburst Startles Friend.

Before the Winifredian sailed a Boston friend, member of the Chamber of Commerce, came aboard, greeted Patten and made some inquiry as to wheat. Patten burst out with:

"Wheat! Wheat- For God's sake man, I'm going abroad to get away from wheat."

The startled Bostonian changed the subject.

Miss Agnes Patten was leaning over the rail. When a photographer manoeuvred for favorable position to "snap" her engaging countenance, he was foiled by Brother "Jack," who called out:

Miss Patten glanced around timidly and retreated to the shelter of a dark corner where no photograph could be taken. It was too bad, for she would have made a pretty picture.

ART IN ADVERTISING.

The merchant of to-day has come to realize the increasing importance of "fascination" in advertising. In doing so he has aimed to make his advertisements artistically attractive, but at the same time to have the illustrations used therein so absolutely fetching as to be fascinating.

A most emphatic example of this modern advertising is the full page advertisement prepared for the Knotair Hosiery Company, which will adorn the back page of The American Sunday Magazine, issue of Sunday, July 18.

Every merchant who is interested in good advertising, and all progressive merchants are, should note particularly this splendid example of publicity. In addition to the attractiveness in illustration, the advertisement tells an emphatic story which should be carefully considered by every retail merchant as well as by every consumer.

TARIFF BLOCK BILL MAY FAIL

President's Stand for Reduction Downward Meets With Violent Opposition and Whole Measure is in Peril---Extreme Protectionists are in Open Revolt.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—There is a deadlock on the tariff. In brief, President Taft has declared the present schedules must be cut. The "interests" declare they must be raised.

The prediction was made in private to-day by some Republican Senators who feel especially pessimistic because of the President's stand in favor of a downward revision that there is a possibility of Congress adjourning without enacting a tariff bill.

They further expressed the opinion that perhaps it might be better to pass no tariff legislation, leaving the Dingley law as it now stands, than to place coal and iron, oil and hides on the free list and to make other reductions which the President favors.

This sentiment comes from the ultra protectionists representing States where these interests are largest. They hope to get the aid of some of the Democrats who like Senator Bailey have advocated duties upon raw materials for revenue purposes to assist them in their efforts to keep those products off the free list.

Issue Up to President.

While members of the House appear to be yielding to the pressure from the White House there are certain Senators who will not submit, according to the statements they make to-day, and who believe their votes are essential to the passage of the tariff law. Senator Aldrich is seeking to relieve himself of all responsibility by consenting to accept the President's views and report a measure from conference in conformity with them if the President will procure the necessary number of votes in the Senate to pass such a bill.

He has put the issue squarely up to the President, and apparently the President has accepted it. In the meantime members of both houses who are anxious to get home see the date of adjournment further removed.

Representative Champ Clark of Missouri, the minority leader of the House, and one of the conferees on the tariff bill, said today that if the President will stand pat for lower duties, as indicated in his statement published to-day, he will receive the solid support of the Democrats. In Mr. Clark's opinion the President issued the tariff statement in response to public sentiment, and it is an indorsement of the Democratic doctrine of free raw material.

BOSTON LEATHER INTERESTS THANK TAFT FOR STAND

President Taft's emphatic declaration in favor of free raw materials in the pending tariff bill, as published in to-day's papers, was read with great satisfaction by the local shoe and leather interests. As expressive of their pleasure, the following telegram was sent to the President to-day by the New England Shoe and Leather Association:

Boston, July 17, 1909.

The President,
White House, Washington:

Your statement, as published in today's newspapers, cannot fail to be exceedingly helpful to the independent tanners and shoe manufacturers, and shoe wearers all over the country. We appreciate and thank you for your discriminating judgment and sense of justice displayed in this action.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, July 17.—The Cincinnati Reds were the opponents of the Doves this afternoon and the game was full of snap all the time. Clark Griffith's men arrived in Boston this morning with high hopes of getting a clean-up in the series, but the Doves were there to see that they got their share of the runs.

The new manager, Harry Smith, was on the job in uniform, and when he appeared on the field the fans gave him a good reception. One bleacherite gave voice to his thoughts by yelling, "We love Big Mike, but, Oh, you Harry." It was a good start for the new manager, and he seems to have the fans right with him.

Smith made a shake-up in the batting order, sending Coffey to third place from fifth and putting Dahlen in Coffey's place. Roy Thomas was moved up to second place by the change.

The weather was fine for baseball and the fans turned out in good style.

TO PUSH DREDGING ON CAPE COD CANAL

NEW BEDFORD, July 17.—The big dredger Kennedy, which will be used in cutting the Cape Cod Canal, arrived here to-day and after taking on supplies and apparatus, it will go to Buzzards Bay to begin work. The dredger came direct from Baltimore. It is expected that it will be at work in about two weeks, and that another dredger, now at work in New York, will come here. It is estimated that the dredging of the canal, which is to have a depth of sixteen feet, will be advanced at the rate of about 100 feet in a day of twelve hours.

WORLD RACE IS CHRONICLED BY WIRELESS

The two teams of schoolboys racing around the world for the Boston American, also "Our Girls," who are en route for a tour of European capitals are located as follows:

Eastward team—Aboard S. S. Kronprinzessin Cecilie, entering European wireless zone, approximately 1,400 miles outside of Plymouth, England, the destined port.

This wireless message from midocean came flying through the ether waves to the office of the BOSTON AMERICAN:

Fast time; accommodations and health excellent; great reception. Love to all. SALLINGER.

On board the Empress of Japan the westward team has just got out of the zone of the wireless in the Pacific ocean. But relay messages will be flashed to passing steamers, and news may come at any hour.

So also with "Our Girls" on board the Mauretania, which is now in mid-Atlantic. The Mauretania wireless will now be picked up in Ireland, and from there will be flashed back to Boston.

INSANITY WATCH ON WIFE-SHOOTER

John A. McGorty of Hudson, who shot his wife and in whose arrest the Rev. Father Mullen played a sensational part, was taken to the East Cambridge jail today, where he will be watched to determine his sanity. Mrs. McGorty is in the hospital at Marlboro, with four bullet wounds, and may not live. McGorty was brought here by State Detective Charles E. Byrnes and Chief of Police John A. Magorty of Hudson, following the arraignment of the accused man, who is held without bonds for a hearing July 27.

CURTIS BREAKS AIRSHIP RECORD FLYING 25 MILES

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 17.—A flight of 24 7-10 miles in 53m. 46s. was made to-day by Glen H. Curtiss in his aeroplane over the Hempstead Plains course winning the cup offered by the Scientific American. In this flight Curtiss excelled all his previous records and all American aeroplane records for the year.

Curtiss also made a flight once around a carefully measured course of 1 3-10 miles for one of the four $250 prizes offered by Cortland Field Bishop, president of the Aero Club of America, for an aeroplane journey of one kilometer, .62 of a mile over a measured course, successfully fulfilling the conditions.

The conditions require not only that the candidate shall soar twenty-five kilometers, nearly one and two-thirds miles, over a measured course, but also that he shall land within 300 meters of his starting point.

Curtiss had made nineteen rounds of the course when he ran into a sudden strong headwind. Fearing that he had not enough gasoline left to make headway against the breeze, he shut off his power and descended. He tried to reach the start, but the machine glided to the earth more than the required 300 meters away from that point. The landing was made easily, and when the aeronaut opened his gasoline tank he found, to his disgust, that he still had two quarts of fuel left, enough to have carried him several miles further.

In preparation for the aeronaut's double effort a triangular course of a mile and three-tenths had been laid out on Hempstead Plains and staked off with three white flags at the turning points. There was no fog this morning, but the breeze was too strong for ideal conditions, and it freshened as the day advanced. The speed of the long flight was comparatively slow, about twenty-eight miles an hour. Both flights were carefully timed.

HARVARD PROFESSOR WHO WOOED 19 YEARS WINS BRIDE AT LAST

Friends of Professor Heinrich Conrad Bierwirth of Harvard are waiting with interest the return from California of the professor and his bride, formerly Miss Anna Fuller, for whom he has waited nineteen long and patient years.

Professor Bierwirth's intimate associates in the Harvard faculty know how well and faithfully the man waited for his bride. The love and fond affection of the bride, through these years, is shown in one fact alone from the California end of the romance. At Miss Fuller's home at Long Beach, California, a place was always set at the table for the absent professor. In this pretty little formality Miss Fuller brought the professor near to her in mind, if not in actual presence.

"The Professor's Love Story," they call it at Harvard, finding some resemblance in this romance of real life to the charming story by Barrie.

Like Barrie's "Professor."

A friend of Professor Bierwirth said today at Harvard:

"You recall how, in 'The Professor's Love Story,' the professor's reserved and taciturn nature yielded gradually to the softening influences of love. While Professor Bierwirth was not so old in appearance, of course, as the hero of Barrie's tale, nor was he ever a man of morose disposition, yet he was quite reserved. Not many of us knew the story of his long waiting for his marriage.

"Of late it had been noticed that Professor Bierwirth was quite happy. He seemed to be highly satisfied at something which he alone knew. Now that we know he went West to be wedded, we naturally assume that the knowledge that his patience was to be rewarded, made his life more sunny. We are all pleased on his account and are anxious to welcome him back to Harvard with his bride."

'Twas Love at Sight.

Nineteen years ago Professor Bierwirth and Miss Fuller were students in Berlin. He was taking advanced courses in languages. She was studying for grand opera. They met and loved at first sight.

Miss Fuller was suddenly taken ill and had to give up her studies. After consulting the best doctors, Miss Fuller's parents took her to California. The professor followed her to this country and became connected with Phillips Andover College. Later he joined the faculty of Harvard as assistant professor of German.

During all the years the two kept up a correspondence. At last the word for which he had been waiting so long was flashed across the continent. It was the one little word "Come!"

The wedding took place in Los Angeles. Professor Bierwirth received the degree of A. B. from Harvard in 1884 and that of Ph. D. from Jena in 1888. He has made his home at No. 15 Avon street, Cambridge.

After a honeymoon trip across the continent Professor and Mrs. Bierwirth will spend the rest of the Summer at Bar Harbor. Their home will be on Shepard street, Cambridge.

BLOW KILLED AGED WOMAN, SAY POLICE

NORTHBORO, July 17.—Seventy-year-old Mrs. Mary Holland died in a mysterious manner at the home of Arthur Hunt, for whom she acted as housekeeper, and an arrest is expected to-day, following an autopsy. The body is said to be covered with bruises, and the authorities declare she was clubbed to death by someone unknown as yet.

Medical Examiner George L. Tobey of Clinton viewed the body to-day and ordered an autopsy. He found a large bruise over the woman's right ear, evidently made by a blunt instrument.

He found another bruise of the same size under the left ear. There was a large abrasion on the woman's hip, and her right arm was discolored.

Dr. Stanley, a local physician, who was called in by a neighbor, found the woman dead. He notified the selectmen, and they in turn notified the medical examiner. The neighbor who reported the matter said that Mr. Hunt came to her and told her that there was something the matter with his housekeeper.

Hunt was at his home in the company of Policemen F. A. Leonard and Harold Foss, to-day. To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter Mr. Hunt said:

"I do not know anything about my housekeeper's death. I did not kill her or cause the injuries which she received. I went to Marlboro yesterday, and when I returned last night I found her on the ground outside one of the windows. She was lying down. I said to her, 'Are you dead?' and she did not answer me. Then I notified one of the neighbors."

SUFFRAGISTS IN AUTO TOUR

READING, July 17.—Mrs. Stanley McCormick's big touring car, laden with suffragists, and floating four yellow banners, attracted considerable attention at 4 o'clock this afternoon as it drew into the public square here. Mrs. McCormick's own chauffeur drove the car and beside him sat two of the most charming speakers, Miss Katherine Tyng of Radcliffe and Miss Rose Heinzen, President of the College Equal Suffrage Association of Massachusetts.

In the back seats were Mrs. Hartley Dennet, Mrs. John E. Crowley, Miss Phyllis Albertson, Miss Mabel Ury and Mrs. Richard Y. Fitzgerald. Other suffragists who came out from Boston for the meeting were Miss A. E. Murphy and Miss Clarke, school teachers. After all of the speakers had been heard and had secured signers of the suffragist petition, the automobile moved on for a similar meeting at Wakefield this evening.

HARE-HOUNDS BALLOON RACE

LONDON, July 17.—Aerial hare and hound racing, a most dangerous and fascinating form f sprt, was initiated to-day when seven balloons left Burlingham in a race planned under the auspices of the Aero Club. The Hon. C. S. Rolls took the part of the hare in a small balloon. Washington Singer, the turfman, piloted his wn car. Great crowds of people gathered to see the start of the race.

BLACKHANDER HANGED.

HAHNVILLE, La., July 17.—Leonardo Gebbia, the first person ever sent to the gallows in Louisiana for a crime committed in the name of the so-called "black hand" society, was hanged here. He received the last sacraments of his religion from a priest.

LYNN DOCTOR IS FREED IN DEATH TRIAL

DETROIT, July 17.—The jury in the case of Dr. G. K. Boyajian of Lynn, who shot his nephew, Haratoon Gastanian, in the Police Court because of the alleged relations between the young man and Mrs. Boyajian, disagreed to-day, after being out all night. Insanity and the unwritten law formed the defence.

Dr. Boyajian fired four shots at his nephew, and he died in a few hours. He then turned the revolver on his wife and fired the two remaining bullets at her. One missed her and the other only penetrated the crown of her hat.

Mrs. Boyajian, who is twenty-eight years of age, and her twenty-three-year-old nephew were arrested on complaint of Dr. Boyajian. He told a remarkable story of his discovery of the alleged relations between his wife and nephew, whom he had brought from his home at Lynn, and was educating at a local medical college.

When the case was called Justice Jeffries ordered Gostanian to rise. Dr. Boyajian jumped to his feet and whipped out the revolver. Before anyone in the courtroom could seize him he was firing at his nephew.

Boyajian maintained to the last that he was innocent of the charges preferred against him. The accusation against the woman was dismissed May 18.

YALE ON SAND BAR IN A FOG

The big steamship Yale of the Metropolitan line to New York, with several hundred passengers aboard, grounded in Long Island Sound early to-day while on her way to Boston. So easily was she managed by Captain Groves that she was off in a few minutes without the passengers knowing of the danger. As a consequence she ship reached Boston later than usual to-day.

The Yale was proceeding slowly in a dense fog at the time and ran on to a sandbar. After a time she was able to get away under her own power with the aid of the tide. Later the wireless operator of the Yale sent out a message, placing the time at about 2 o'clock, and adding that the Yale was not damaged.

C. W. Apsey, general manager of the Metropolitan line, when seen to-day said that he had not been informed of the grounding. None of the officers would discuss it.

GEN. BRIGHAM AIDS LOMBARD

At the State House to-day before the court of inquiry to investigate the conduct of Colonel Walter H. Lombard, Coast Artillery Corps, in the expenditure of $2,500 appropriated for furnishing books of instruction to enlisted men, Adjutant-General William H. Brigham denied saying that Lombard had disobeyed his orders. Colonel Charles B. Nutter, Lombard's commanding officer, testified that a board of four military men was appointed to gather materials for the preparation of the first volume of these books, but that as Lombard was the only man trained in this sort of work, it was left for him to do. The inquiry will be resumed on Tuesday, July 27, when Colonel Lombard will take the stand.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE GETS ODD BEQUEST

DETROIT, Mich., July 17.—The Christian Scientist Church will profit by almost $12,000 from the estate of Mary Heydiauff of Grand Rapids, an eccentric character who has for years maintained the most frugal habits, even hiring herself out as a scrubwoman in order that she might save money for the church and for the other benevolent purposes provided for in her will. Four-fifteenths of the estate goes to the Christian Science Publishing Society of Boston.

ACTRESS AND BROTHER DROWN TOGETHER

PEORIA, Ill., July 17.—Jeannette Dolan, known throughout the country as a member of Richard Carle's companies, and her brother, James Dolan of Chillicothe, were drowned while fishing. In attempting to change seats in the boat the craft capsized. The bodies were recovered.

PROF. BIERWITH, WHO WINS BRIDE AFTER 19 YEARS

ZIMMERMAN TO AID IRISH FISHERIES WAR

NEW YORK, July 17.—Eugene Zimmerman, father of the Duchess of Manchester, has taken up the fight to save the Irish Fisheries, the chief industry of the west coast of Ireland.

On a recent visit to his daughter and son-in-law at Kylemore Castle, County Galway, Mr. Zimmerman learned that, owing to the tariff of $2 a barrel on salt mackerel and $1 on salt herring in this country, the principal source of income of the poor along the Irish coast is being cut off and that great suffering was threatened.

The Duke and Duchess of Manchester have taken up the subject and a lively agitation has been started in England and Ireland for a retaliatory tariff on American meats, wheat and flour to force the stand patters at Washington to repeal the duties on mackerel and herring in order that the Irish poor may not be forced to face a famine.

Mr. Zimmerman has received a letter from M. J. Downing, commissioner of agriculture for Ireland, thanking him for the good already accomplished by the agitation in Great Britain and the United States and expressing the hope that the tariff may soon be materially reduced or abolished.

AUTOIST FINED AND REBUKED

Judge Cutler caused quite a stir in the Chelsea Police Court to-day when he rebuked Joseph F. Card of Albany, who was arrested yesterday on the Revere Beach reservation for overspeeding his automobile, for declaring that the park police compelled him and a party of women friends to sit in the machine several hours in the rainstorm while waiting for a bail commissioner.

Patrolman Gardner testified that Mr. Card and his party of friends were invited into the police station to await the passing of the showers.

After hearing the evidence Judge Cutler looked at Card and said: "You are in the habit of associating with ladies and acting like a gentleman. Why do you come into court and tell an untruth and act like a rowdy?"

He then imposed a fine of $20.

BRIGANDS GET $25,000 LOOT

BERLIN, July 17.—Brigands held the highway between Augustowo and Lipsk, on the Russo-German frontier, and captured some sixty travelers, whom they relieved of large sums of cash. It is estimated that a total of $25,000 was taken by the road agents, who are believed by the authorities to be the men who have committed numerous robberies throughout a wide district on the frontier.

One of their exploits was to capture a toll-gate house. They bound the keeper and his wife, and stationed one of their number, dressed in the gatekeeper's uniform, outside the gate. Peasants were allowed to pass on the payment of the usual fee, but when a prosperous looking traveler came along he was bound and relieved of his cash and then held captive.

The German government has taken up the matter with the Russian authorities.

GRAND TRUNK BUYS ALLAN STEAMERS

MONTREAL, July 17.—It is rumored here that the Grand Trunk Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific have joined hands in the purchase of the Allan line of steamships.

There have been several meetings of the Allan family here this week, which have been attended by Bryce Allan of Boston. Hugh Allan sailed on the Tunisian for England, with the object, it is understood, of arranging the English end of the deal with Charles M. Hays, who is at present in England arranging for the Grand Trunk Pacific's new $10,000,000 loan.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF MAN ON ELEVATED

Suspicious circumstances surrounding the death of Michael Reardon of Everett, whose mangled body was found on the Elevated structure in Charlestown early to-day, have given the police a mystery to unravel which may have serious features.

The train crew say they are certain no man was struck during the night. It would have been a difficult matter for anyone with murderous intent to have thrown him out of the rear door of the train, for that is barred and locked.

Early to-day the lifeless body of Reardon was found by the police of Station 15, City Square, hanging over the edge of the L structure, all but ready to fall into the street. The road was notified and the police and employes took the body to the City Square Station and from there to the morgue.

Assistant Medical Examiner Timothy Leary was called, and after a preliminary investigation decided to withhold for the present from assigning the cause of death until the police had more time to investigate.

There were bad wounds upon the head, which may have been made with a blunt instrument.

How he could have got to the track, down the steep steps, after climbing over the guard rail at the end of the platform, and walked all this distance without touching the deadly third rail, is puzzling.

That he did not stumble and get caught between the ties is also remarkable.

The last Regular L train passed the point where Reardon's body was found at 12:30 o'clock, and the driver and others of the crew are positive that there was no one on the track and that no one was struck.

Reardon was a workingman, fifty years old, and lived at No. 28 Court street, Everett. The police of that city have been notified.

BREAK SNELL WILL ON THIRD CONTEST

CLINTON, Ill., July 17.—The third contest over the will of Colonel Thomas Snell, who left an estate of $2,000,000, cutting his only son off with an annuity of $50, ended with a verdict that the eccentric millionaire was insane at the time he made the will.

This decision sets aside the bequest of several thousand dollars to Mabel Estella Snell McNamara, the aged colonel's "affinity." The jury was out a little more than an hour and took but one ballot.

The most sensational feature of all three hearings of the case was the introduction of letters from nearly a score of women, young and old, all of whom professed to love the aged millionaire madly. Scarcely a letter was written to the old man by any of the women which did not demand gifts and money.

HIBBARD RESTS TO REGAIN HIS VOICE

Mayor Hibbard's throat affliction has reached such a stage that he leaves to-day for an indefinite period for rest and treatment in Maine.

The Mayor underwent an operation by Dr. George A. Leland. The physician advised the Mayor to leave the city at once if he wished to regain his voice in time for the Fall campaign.

The Mayor's throat trouble dates back some years, although it was aggravated through a cold he contracted at the time of President Taft's inauguration.

Mrs. Hibbard's broken ankle has improved considerably. She will be unable to walk for several weeks.

WIFE DIVORCES IRA SANKEY'S SON

NEW YORK, July 17.—Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum has signed the final decree of divorce in favor of Mrs. Grace J. Sankey from John E. Sankey, son of the late Ira D. Sankey, the evangelist. The Sankeys were married at Northfield, Mass., in October, 1893. They have a daughter, Grace Victoria, six years old, and by the decree Mrs. Sankey gets the custody of the child. For some time Mr. Sankey was confined in an asylum at Astoria.

EXPLORER WILL GO AFTER NORTH POLE

LONDON, June 17.—Henry Savage Landor, the famous explorer, said to-day that he contemplated making an attempt to find the southern pole. Mr. Landor's idea is to form an Anglo-American expedition and attempt to outdo Lieutenant Shackleton's efforts. "My idea," said Mr. Landor, "is to have only a small expedition, composed of four or five hardy companions whom I know and could trust. I would not think of spending the Winter in the Polar regions.

FRUIT MAN WHOLE FIRE DEPARTMENT

A disastrous fire among the crowded tenements at Olden court was averted to-day through the presence of mind of Vincenzo Scali, a fruitstand keeper at the court and Atlantic avenue, who, learning that the cellar of the three-story building at No. 5 was ablaze, rushed to a nearby fireplug and had a stream of water playing on the fire and the blaze under control when the firemen arrive da few minutes later.

CITY POINT LIFE SAVER GETS MEDAL

Superintendent George Cuddihy of the boys' department at L Street Bath has been awarded a gold medal by the United States Volunteer Life-Saving Corps for saving twenty lives during his twelve years as captain of the City Point branch of the corps before he resigned to be superintendent at the bathhouse. Superintendent Cuddihy is also given the title of commodore of the South Boston Division of the U. S. L. S. C. in further recognition of his bravery and experience.

$8,000 FIRE IN MATTRESS FACTORY

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, July 17.—The mattress factory of Frank F. Avery on Franklin street was burned out to-day with an estimated loss of $8,000. Mr. Avery is at Nantasket Beach on a week's vacation. Only three men were at work in the plant when the fire started, as the plant has not been running on full time of late. These three men tried to put out the fire with a garden hose, but the flames gained headway on the inflammable material and the fire department was called. Spontaneous combustion is thought to have caused it.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

148 English Warships Review on the Thames.

LONDON—One hundred and forty-eight British warships have dropped anchor in the Thames, the array extending to Westminster Bridge, in the heart of London. The total tonnage of this fleet is 750,000, its cost is $310,000,000 and it is officered and manned by 42,000 of the picked sons of the nation. Every one of the 148 vessels could go into battle at a moment's notice. The object of this superb display of Britain's fighting power afloat is largely that of an anti-panic show. "They have made the country think that we have no navy," says Admiral Fisher. "The British millions may now line up along the Thames, go out in boats and see the great reality for themselves."

To Honor Lady Granard.

LONDON—The Duchess of Buccleuch has intimated her desire to retire from her position as the Mistress of Robes, and three ladies of the bed chamber have also expressed their wish to relinquish their appointments. The name of the new Marchioness of Ripon is mentioned for the position of the Mistress of Robes, and two of the ladies in waiting will be the Countess of Beauchamp and Lady Granard, the American wife of the Master of Horse.

"China Will Rule World.

BERLIN—Colonel Daniel W. Rountree of Atlanta, who is in Berlin, says: "China is the giant of the Orient and will be a world power some day. It will not be while you and I are living, but the time will come when the world will be ruled by the yellow race. The intelligence, the wealth and the population are all there to bring about such a result. China will some day rule the entire world."

Ovation for Rose Stahl.

LONDON—Miss Rose Stahl and her company shut up shop at the vaudeville in a blaze of glory. "The Chorus Lady" is the most American play that London ever paid money to see, and proof of its success is to be found in the box office and the tickled-to-death expression that the manager, Harry Davis, is wearing. Miss Stahl was given an ovation.

Pictures Bring Fortune.

LONDON—High prices ruled at Christie's when Lady Van Alphen's collection of pictures was sold. Israel's "Portrait of a Girl" realized $5,000; two paintings by W. Maris, which won the gold medal at Chicago in 1893, brought $7,875. Two portraits by Romney brought $8,950, and Raiburn's "Portrait of Sir John Sinclair" made the record price of $31,500.

Honeymooners in Crash.

PARIS—Senor and Senora de Saavedra, who are on their honeymoon trip, were seriously injured in an automobile accident near Yport. Senora Saavedra sustained a deep cut on the forehead and scalp. Her husband escaped with a broken rib. The chauffeur had his shoulder blade and right arm broken.

Million Vote on Strike.

LONDON—The Miners' Confederation of Great Britain has decided in favor of balloting its million members as to whether or not a national strike shall be declared in support of the Scottish miners, who are resisting a wage reduction of sixpence a day. The ballot will not be completed before July 27.

Duchess Denies Engagement.

PARIS—The Duchess de Chaulnes, formerly Miss Theodora Shonts, who is now with her mother at the Chateau de Boursault, repudiates the story of her reported engagement to Prince Joachim-Napoleon-Michel Murat. She says she does not even know him.

Aviators at Vichy.

VICHY, France—Aviation week commences here on Sunday. M. Tissandier arrived to-day with his Wright apparatus. M. Zippel is here trying to fly to-day with his triplane. M. Bleriot is expected tomorrow and M. Latham will come if he does not cross the channel.

BRIDE-ELECT, 15, GETS PERMISSION OF COURT TO WED

Miss Gertrude M. Latham.

A romance in which the bride-elect is only fifteen years old is revealed in the order issued by Judge Charles J. McIntyre of the Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge, giving legal permission for the wedding of Miss Gertrude M. Latham of Stoneham and eighteen-year-old William T. Quinlan of the same town. The bride-elect is the youngest in the State this season.

Miss Latham is the daughter of Mrs. Josephine L. Latham of Stoneham. She had her mother's consent to the wedding. But, on account of her being under age, it was necessary also to obtain permission of the court.

CONTEST OF WILL YIELDS $140,000

By a compromise agreement four cousins of the late Caroline M. Barnard, widow of Robert M. Barnard of Everett, who entered a contest against the allowance of her will, are allowed $35,000 each. Harriet A. Bond of Somerville and Mrs. A. Geraldine Whitney of the Hotel Vendome, Boston, had not been named in the will. The other two contestants, Misses Harriet D. and Laura P. Danforth of the Hotel Canterbury, Boston, had been bequeathed $12,000 each. Each will receive an additional $35,000. The bulk of the estate, which amounted in value to about $1,000,000, was left to colleges and churches.

3-MILE RACE FOR 3 BOTTLES OF BEER

GLOUCESTER, July 17.—John Gilpin and his famous ride had nothing on a three-mile chase through Gloucester with City Marshal Charles S. Marchant after B. Joseph O'Malley. O'Malley was driving a wagon on which there was a barrel. The city marshal of the no-license city became suspicious about the barrel. Marchant overtook the barrel and found three bottles of beer inside, which he confiscated. Later he confiscated O'Malley.

BOY PUNCHES TOM SHARKEY

WOONSOCKET, July 17.—The friends of Edward Tingley, a nineteen-year-old East Providence boy, are telling to-day how he punched Tom Sharkey, the prize fighter, in the nose yesterday. It may be said that young Tingley didn't know who Sharkey was when he hit him, but his friends say it wouldn't have made any difference if he had. Sharkey has a string of horses at the track here. After the races yesterday while a crowd was boarding a car Sharkey jostled young Tingley and his mother. The boy hit the pugilist on the nose, they clinched, rolled over and were separated. Young Tingley was not hurt. He is the son of Stephen L. Tingley, a horse owner.

FATTENING HARRIMAN; THEY FEED HIM OFTEN ON MILK, BREAD, BEER, MEAT

All the newspapers announced a few days ago that Harriman, who broke himself down while building up railroads, is being revived on a diet of bread and beer.

This newspaper cabled for further details as to the fattening of Mr. Harriman. In reply to our cable we receive interesting details from Mr. Hugo Bettauer, our representative in Vienna.

Mr. Bettauer was asked to see Professor Struempell, the greatest living authority on diet, who has charge of Mr. Harriman's health, and to get for ordinary broken-down Americans at home full details as to the great Professor's methods of building up health. Our correspondent sends us what follows:

Vienna, July 17, 1909.

As I have cabled before, Professor Struempell, the world-known specialist for internal diseases, goes daily to Semmering, where Mr. Harriman is stopping in an idyllically situated hotel.

Professor Struempell, with whom I had a talk, finds that Harriman is suffering with rheumatism of the muscles, stiffness of the spine—a disease first described by this famous Vienna professor—and from neurasthenia.

The last was caused partly by mental overwork, and party by a cause which may seem astonishing in a man of the great wealth of Harriman—BY LACK OF NOURISHMENT.

When Professor Struempell told Harriman that he was suffering practically from starvation as the cause of his troubles, Harriman replied, smiling: "I had time enough to make a fortune, but I lacked time to eat three meals a day."

For the neurasthenia and its causes Streumpell has put Harriman on a diet which is a systematic fattening cure.

When Professor Streumpell started to prescribe a diet for Mr. Harriman and ordered him to take at least two bottles of beer in his daily menu, Mr. Harriman exclaimed, "But I never drank beer in my life!"

"Well, then," said the Professor, "that is partly the trouble with you, and I shall give you a beer very light in alcohol."

The exact diet prescribed for Harriman is as follows:

7 o'clock in the morning—One pint of milk.

8 o'clock in the morning—One small cup of coffee, with cream, three ounces of cold roast beef, three slices of white bread with butter, a plate of potatoes.

10 o'clock in the morning—Light beer and three slices of bread and butter.

1 o'clock noon—Farina soup, seven ounces of meat (roast beef or poultry), mashed potatoes, vegetables, four ounces of stewed plums, and beer.

3:30 p. m.—A pint of milk.

5:30 p. m.—A third of a quart of milk, three ounces of cold roasted meat, two slices of bread and butter.

8 o'clock in the evening—Three ounces of roast beef, four biscuits, a glass of beer.

9:30 p. m.—Half a quart of milk, two biscuits.

And then to bed. HUGO BETTAUER.

Readers will notice with interest the frequency with which the German Professor feeds the half-starved millionaire. The frequent meals are light. The idea, with a grown man whose stomach is weakened, as with a very young baby, is to feed OFTEN and a little at a time.

Professor Struempell's idea is to transform the railroad king, for the time being, into a digesting machine, and put into his stomach just as much as the stomach can take care of. In other words, Mr. Harriman's stomach is getting now a dose of that old, familiar prescription, "all that the traffic will bear."

There isn't any doubt that if Harriman will obey orders, use his head and nerves as little as possible and let his stomach create new tissue on a sane diet he will come back here and live many years to build more railroads and perhaps give future large contributions to future Theodore Roosevelts.

Very interesting to all citizens, and especially to prohibitionists, is the great Vienna professor's attitude toward the drink question. He gives Harriman beer three times a day, in spite of the latter's protest—and a glass of beer, as they understand it over there,holds about as much as an ordinary beer bottle in this country.

This diet, prescribed by the greatest living expert, justifies what we have often said to our readers, that true temperance is to be brought about, not by condemning stimulants indiscriminately, but by fighting the poisonous stimulants.

Beers and the light wines in moderation represent temperance, and therefore they are a part of the diet prescribed by the greatest expert.

Whiskey, gin and such poisons would no more have been prescribed by this famous professor than would arsenic or prussic acid. Whiskey is a drug and not a drink. It should be classed by law among drugs, and regulated as such. The wisest man drinks little or nothing, and touches spirits never.

BOGUS CHECKS FLOOD LYNN

A flood of bogus checks, drawn on the Manufacturers' National Bank of Lynn, is coming into that bank from cities in New York State for redemption.

This has been going on for a week, and the aggregate amount of the checks now is between $500 and $600.

All checks are drawn under the name of John J. Nolan and are payable to and indorsed by M. J. Nolan. The Lynn bank has no such depositors. Cashier Clifton Coburn reported the matter to the Lynn police, who found that no reports had been made yet to the authorities in the New York State cities where the bogus checks were drawn. This is due, doubtless, to the delay in getting the papers through the clearing house.

Police Inspector Burckes finds that the fraud has usually given them in payment for clothing and furnishings. So far Nolan has worked Rome, Syracuse, Rochester and New York.

TWO SCHOONERS NOT SEEN SINCE BIG GALE

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., July 17.—Reports were brought here that the schooner Virginia Belle of Burgeo, N. F., Captain Joseph H. Vatcher, which left St. Pierre, Miq., early on the morning of the gale of July 8, was missing.

The schooner Mary A., Captain Charles Clarke, also is reported missing.

2 DOCTORS IN THIEF CHASE

James Kelley, who says he lives in the North End, was arraigned in Roxbury Court today for what the police say was a daring double-ended robbery, and was held in bonds totaling $1,200. It is charged that Kelley was detected trying to force a window at the home of Dr. J. Herbert Moore, No. 520 Commonwealth avenue, and that when chased he stopped on his way long enough to snatch a bag of instruments from the auto of Dr. H. W. Goodall, standing on the avenue.

Kelley pleaded guilty to stealing the instruments, but the court declined jurisdiction and ordered him to find bonds of $200. On the charge of breaking and entering the prisoner waived examination and was held in $1,000.

When Dr. Moore saw Kelley cutting away the screen at one of his windows he gave chase. Dr. Goodall was nearby when Kelley snatched his bag of instruments in the flight, and with Dr. Moore he got into the auto and continued the chase. Patrolmen Cronin and Hamilton came from the opposite direction and caught Kelley in Haviland street.

TWO AUTOISTS FINED.

Two autoists were fined by Judge Almy in the Cambridge Court to-day, Harry Asker of Boston paying $5 for not having registration papers with him and William Viano of Arlington paying the same, with the addition of $15 for overspeeding.

MUSICIAN'S BRIDE, WHO WAS VICTIM OF FAKE TELEGRAM

FAKE MESSAGE IN A PLOT TO KIDNAP BRIDE

Believing that an effort was made to kidnap Marie Vespia, a bride of three months living at No. 12 Cross street, by means of a decoy telegram, the Boston police are to-day trying to find the sender. They hope to find the messenger boy who delivered the message and in this way get a description of the person who employed the boy. The telegram read as follows:

Mrs. Vespia:

Meet me at the South Station at 10 o'clock. Be sure.

Your Mother.

The bogus telegram was written in a man's handwriting and the envelope contained the correct address in the same handwriting. The police have already learned that the telegram, although written on a regulation blank, did not come from any of the telegraph offices.

Mrs. Vespia and her husband Charles, who is a musician, are much worked up over the affair. The young man believes that an effort may be made to do harm to his wife. They were married only three months ago in Providence, where their parents now live in Atwells avenue.

"I received the telegram about 7:30 last night," said the young bride to-day. "A messenger boy brought it to me, and as I have received telegrams many times, I asked him where his book was, so that I could sign. He said he had no book, but handed me a slip of paper to sign.

"I opened the telegram and found it was apparently a message from my mother to meet her at the South station. I became suspicious and notified my husband. He called up my mother and his mother in Providence, and both declared that they knew nothing about the telegram. We then went to the telegraph offices and were informed that the telegram was a fake ,although written on a regulation blank.

"We believe that somebody intended to kidnap me and tried to get me away from home by sending the telegram. I have also thought it might have been sent by some former sweetheart of my husband's who was jealous because he married me, but my husband says it couldn't have been that."

Mrs. Vespia is an unusually pretty brunette, with a very trim figure. Her husband thinks that some man may have admired her on the street and followed her home, and after learning who she was sent the telegram hoping to meet her.

TORPEDO BOATS WIN IN NIGHT ATTACK

PROVINCETOWN, July 17.—The result of this week's attacks by the torpedo flotilla on the battleships has been a slight tactical victory for the torpedo craft. The particulars of the attacks are not made public by Admiral Schroeder, but he admitted that in a few instances the torpedo boats had achieved the unexpected. All the attacks were made at night. A series of combined attacks by the torpedo boats and submarines will be the feature of next week's drill by the fleet.

GAVE LIFE TO SAVE SISTER.

Captain Mary Brace, stenographer at the New England provincial headquarters of the Salvation Army, in Boston, was drowned in the St. Clair river, near Sarnia, Ont., while she was trying to save her sister from death in the same manner. Miss Brace, who was a native of Canada, had lived with relatives in South Boston for two years. Her death cast a deep gloom over Salvation Army headquarters, where she was highly esteemed.

PLAN DEDICATION OF PEMAQUID MEMORIAL

BATH, Me., July 17—The formal opening and dedication of the new stone memorial tower at Pemaquid Beach, which has been erected by means of State appropriations at a cost of about $6,000, will take place next Thursday. Annie Russell, the actress, now Mrs. York, will probably deliver a reading. Governor Fernald and many prominent men will participate in the exercises.

TEAMSTERS TO HOLD A SECRET MEETING

A special meeting of Local 25 of the Teamsters' Union will be held at Brodbine Hall, Dover and Albany streets, Sunday afternoon. The utmost secrecy is being maintained by the officers of the local regarding the nature of the business to come before the meeting. They say, however, that following the vote which is to be taken on the question its results will be made public.

BROKER BAILED ON THE CHARGE OF ABDUCTION

Gerald J. Savage, a prominent real estate broker with offices in the Old South building and a residence in Jamaica Plain, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the Police Court at Cottage City to-day, charged with abducting Mary E. Matelle, a nineteen-year-old girl of that place.

Judge Eldredge continued the case for one week, and ordered the defendant to furnish surety in the sum of $1,000. Bail was promptly furnished by Savage's mother-in-law, and he left the court room in company with his relatives.

While Savage is held for abduction, the girl's whereabouts is as much of a mystery as it was when Fred Matelle, brother of the missing girl, swore out the warrant for the arrest of Savage. Members of the family are frantically endeavoring to find some clew by which she can be located. She has not been seen since July 9, the same day that Savage left Cottage City for Boston.

The missing girl is the stepdaughter of Joseph Riel, a prosperous strawberry grower.

Although members of the family refuse to discuss the case, they admit they have known Savage for over a year, when he went to Cottage City to develop some real estate, and when he incidentally made the acquaintance of their daughter.

Means were taken to break up the correspondence between Mary and Savage after the latter returned to Boston in May, and the family regarded the friendship of both at an end until about June 15, when Mary, it is alleged, was seen at the station in company with Savage on his arrival from Boston.

Joseph Riel then appeared and compelled his stepdaughter to return home, where it is said she was chastized for her clandestine meeting.

Warned against the man a second time, Mary seemingly became penitent, for she kissed her stepfather after drying her tears and said she would forget Savage for good and all.

Saturday the family was startled by hearing that Savage had returned to town the night before and that he was seen with Mary at the railroad station at noon. The father of the missing girl, accompanied by her brother, hurried there for the purpose of having a final understanding with Savage regarding the girl, when it was learned that both had left town.

Fred Matelle thereupon secured a warrant, charging Savage with abduction.

MILITIAMEN WANT DOUBLE CAMP PAY

It is up to Governor Draper to determine whether the members of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia who do duty under Federal government auspices shall be paid by both the State and Federal governments. The question must be decided soon, as the Coast Artillerymen are going into camp at the forts for practice with the big guns. The solution of the question affects the remainder of militia, who will engage in the mimic defence of Boston. It is the purpose of the men to use for themselves the pay allowed by the Federal government and to give to their company treasurer the money paid by the State.

Miss Frances Dwyer, Winifredian Passenger

Snapshot of Assistant District Attorney's daughter at pier to-day by Boston American staff photographer.

The Leyland liner Winifredian sailed at 10 o'clock to-day for Liverpool, carrying, among other passengers, a complete array of legal and judicial talent sufficient to hold court, prosecute and defend cases and get a judgment.

If any laws are broken on the voyage they can have court held by Judge J. P. Parmenter of Boston Municipal Court, who is off on a general tour of Europe.

The State could be represented by former Assistant District Attorney Michael T. Dwyer, who knows, of course, just how to work up a case for the prosecution.

Mr. Dwyer is accompanied by his daughter, Miss Frances T. Dwyer. They will tour Ireland and the continent.

To defend whatever victims of the law arise there will be Attorneys Frank Gaylord Cook and William N. Richardson, both well-known members of the Boston bar. Mr. Cook is accompanied by his wife. With Mr. Richardson are Mrs. Richardson, Misses Margaret and Katherine Richardson and Leslie Richardson.

Many lawyers came down to the dock to see this array of legal talent safely started on the voyage. Up to sailing time the dock and steamer decks resembled Pemberton Square and the Law Courts building on account of the number of lawyers in sight. The Winifredian carries seventy-six saloon passengers. Among them are Dr. A. J. Stockwell, Chairman Joseph A. Maccabe of the Bath Commission, F. W. Andros of Taunton, Samuel S. Green of Worcester and the Rev. T. D. Martin of Providence.

WEDDING SECRET 2 YEARS.

SPRINGFIELD, July 17.—For two years Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Pease of No. 30 Palmer avenue have kept their marriage a secret. The bride, who was Miss Elizabeth Arnitz of Holyoke, has continued to work since her marriage. It was the husband who accidentally gave the marriage away.

BOSTON GIRL IS LEADER OF SUFFRAGISTS

Miss Mary Tyng, a pretty Radcliffe graduate suffragette, who lives at No. 21 Yarmouth street, with her sister, Miss Katherine Tyng, is making a tremendous hit in New York at the meeting of the suffragettes.

She was the feature of an open-air gathering in the Harlem district yesterday when the suffragettes talked to 500 factory girls at the noon hour. She goes to Coney Island to-night to continue her propaganda.

The New York morning papers in reporting to-day the suffragette doings in Harlem, feature Miss Mary Tyng. When she began to speak she was a bit nervous and twisted her handkerchief in her fingers for a moment. But she soon got into her speaking "stride" and held her audience, saying in part:

"They say that a woman's place is at home. Let me ask why you factory girls are not at home then. (Cheers.)

"Don't you know that coffee is imported into this country at eight cents a pound. But, when you buy it, you have to pay forty cents a pound for it. That is one reason why women should vote."

Vanquished a Man.

A lone man in the crowd yelled: "What will the women get by voting?"

"What did men gain by it?" retorted Miss Tyng. The lone man vanished while the factory girls applauded the speaker.

"I worked in a department store from cash girl up," continued Miss Tyng, "but when I was able to do a man's work and asked for a man's wages, they laughed at me. This moved me, for one thing, to become a suffragette."

Miss Tyng has just been appointed secretary of the New York National Progressive Women's Suffrage Association. This organization is holding the open-air meetings and carrying on propaganda work in New York, just as the Massachusetts Women Suffrage League is in the Bay State.

Miss Tyng is one of the battery of college girl beauties which the Massachusetts League is using with so much success in its open-air meetings around the State this Summer.

Sister a Speaker, Too.

She is about twenty-three years old and was a special student at Radcliffe. Her sister, Miss Katherine Tyng, who was one of the speakers at the open-air meeting in Dedham last Saturday, is a graduate of the last graduating class at Radcliffe.

Both girls were born in Japan, but of American parentage. Their father is Rev. Mr. Tyng, a missionary, who is now in Japan.

FAITH HEALING LOGICAL, SAYS MUNSTERBERG

Declaring that all so-called religious cures or methods of healing diseases are based on mental suggestion, Professor Hugo Munsterberg, in an address to the Harvard Summer School of Theology, said that the movement for the healing of the sick by means of religion could no longer be left out of any discussion bearing upon religion and entering upon the field of scientific psychology.

Speaking to his subject: "The Church and Psychotherapy," the professor said:

"This is not a movement in which the minister is looking out for the spiritual health of the community, but of the physical health of the individual. It is an attempt to place religion at the service of the public in the case of disease—to supplement or substitute itself for the physicians. And so the standpoint from which it must be looked at concerns only religion."

After pointing out that the new movement was very similar to the old faith ones, he called special attention to the Emmanuel movement which differentiates diseases as if God had the power through religious emotion to cure certain diseases known as functional, but had no power over organic diseases. This academic restriction on the power of God has a tendency to create confusion in the minds of those who have conceived God to be all creative and all powerful, he said.

Looking at the whole question from the standpoint of psychology, Professor Munsterberg said it could not be denied that religious emotion has a deep effect on the body. Every physician admits that fact, and also admits that serious diseases can be cured by religious emotion. The Christian Scientists have proven this, and the faith cures have proved it for thousands of years.

FIVE GOSPEL SERVICES ON BALL GROUND

The Evangelical Alliance of Greater Boston will begin a series of gospel meetings on the National League baseball grounds to-morrow, continuing for five consecutive Sundays.

There will be a band of twenty-five pieces which will start a parade at the corner of Dudley street and Blue Hill avenue at 3 o'clock. Before the parade there will be a chorus of several hundred voices led by B. H. MacCurdy, and the meeting will be in charge of Lawrence Greenwood, superintendent of the tent and open-air work of the Evangelical Alliance.

The meeting will begin at 3:45 p. m. and will last one hour. There will be special singing by the Hawthorne Male Quartet, besides the grand chorus. The churches of Roxbury, Dorchester and the South End are backing this movement, which is one of fifteen different points where special meetings are being held in tents and in the open air.

At the Clarendon Street Baptist Church Rev. James A. Francis will preach at both morning and evening services. There will be an open-air meeting on the steps at the evening service.

Rev. P. S. Henson will preach at both services at the First Baptist Church.

At the Ruggles Street Baptist Church, Rev. Millard F. Johnson, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, will preach at both morning and evening services.

"God Likeness" will be the topic at the morning meeting at the Warren Avenue Baptist Church. In the evening Rev. Joseph E. Perry will preach on "Reckless Driving."

The Rev. Frederick E. Taylor of Indianapolis will preach at the morning service at the Tremont Temple Baptist Church on "A Young Man's Vision."

"Life" will be the subject at both the morning and afternoon services at the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

The Rev. Wellington H. Tinker will occupy the pulpit at the morning service at the Mt. Vernon Church.

At the Park Street Congregational Church the Rev. J. Lee Mitchell of Attleboro will preach at both services.

The Rev. Allen E. Cross will preach at the morning service at the Old South Church. Evening services have been discontinued during July and August.

At the Shawmut Congregational Church the Rev. A. A. Berle will preach at the morning meeting on "Creation and Recreation." His evening subject will be "The Will to Personate."

At the St. Paul's Church, Alex F. Irvine will of the Church of the Ascension of New York will preach at the morning service.

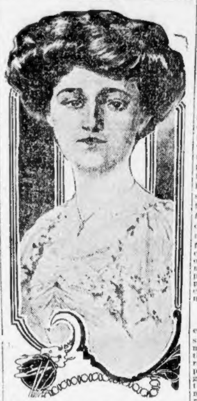
The Rev. Edward T. Sullivan of Newton Centre will preach at Trinity Church at the morning service.

The Rev. George W. King will preach at both meetings at People's Temple.

At the First Presbyterian Church the Rev. James Y. Wilson of Kirkaldy, Scotland, will occupy the pulpit at both services.

The Rev. W. W. Fenn, Dean of Harvard Divinity School, will preach at the morning service at King's Chapel.

PRETTY GIRL BRIDE OF OFFICER TO-DAY AT NAVY WEDDING



Miss Helen Lawton Drury, Who To-day Weds Lieutenant James Harvey Toint.

NAVAL OFFICER WEDS DAUGHTER OF PAYMASTER

NEWPORT, R. I., July 17.—Both the navy and army were represented here to-day at the wedding of Miss Helen Lawton Drury, daughter of Pay Director Hiram E. Drury, U. S. N., to Lieutenant James Harvey Tomb, U. S. N. The wedding at the Zabriskie Memorial Church is a brilliant affair, the full dress uniforms of the officers adding much to the attractiveness of the decorations in the church.

The Rev. Charles F. Beattie, the rector of the church, was assisted by Chaplain W. G. Cassard, U. S. N., in performing the Episcopal ceremony. The bride, a beautiful girl, was attired in white satin with sweeping train.

Miss Hayes of New York was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Kidder of Boston, Miss Rachael Lawton of Springfield, Mass., Miss Katherine Gibson, daughter of Rear Admiral W. C. Gibson, U. S. N., of New York, and Miss Elizabeth Gibson of Concord, N. H. Lieutenant H. G. Sparrow, U. S. N., is best man.

The ushers were Lieutenant C. H. Woodward, Lieutenant K. G. Castelman, Lieutenant F. R. McCrary and Surgeon Jacob Steff, all from the Torpedo Station here.

Among the guests at the church were Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, Lieutenant and Mrs. Frank Taylor Evans, Commander and Mrs. W. F. Fullum, Miss Marianna Fullum, Miss Margaretta Siegfried, Miss Mary Cassard, Miss Marguerite Mason, Lieutenant and Mrs. Alfred H. Miles, Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Hobbs, Miss Marjorie Hobbs, Miss Josephine Schroeder, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Seaton Schroeder, Lieutenant George B. Landenberger, Ensign John F. Atkinson, Lieutenant Willis G. Mitchell, Paymaster Franklin P. Williams, Lieutenant Edward T. Corstein, Lieutenant Ward K. Wortman, Lieutenant Commander Benton C. Decker, Rear Admiral and Mrs. John P. Merrill, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Stephen B. Luce, Commanders Roy C. Smith, William B. Fletcher and Philip Andrews; Lieutenant Commanders C. T. Vogelgesang and William S. Turpin, Lieutenant L. A. Totten, Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, Commander William L. Rodgers, Captain and Mrs. McCarty Little, Commander Joseph L. Jayne, Rear Admiral Thomas C. McLean, Commanders P. W. Hourigan and Joseph W. Oman, Lieutenant Commanders J. L. Sticht, Edward H. Durrell, Lieutenants P. H. Macy, W. P. Cronan, Pay Inspector P. H. Hicks, Medical Inspector Henry G. Beyer, Captains Louis M. Little and J. W. Wadleigh, U. S. N.

A large reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's father at No. 42 Kay street.

NAVY MEN OF FLEET ARE GUESTS AT BALL

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, July 17.—One of the most prominent bankers in New York speaking of the movement in stocks, says that as long as money keeps easy and crop prospects continue good, nothing can stop it. There is nothing very original in the assertion, but it is interesting in showing that the same view prevails in the most important circles that is held by the smaller speculators who have been buying, or confidently holding stocks. Everywhere these two factors have been regarded as all important, and the fact invites attention. So long as we have cheap money and good crop prospects the market will continue strong, but it is a fair presumption that if a time should come when the market lacked one or the other of these factors, its strength could not be as consistently maintained as at present. Cheap money without good crop prospects would hardly suffice, and good crop prospects without cheap money would not avail for the maintenance of prices.

The enthusiastic confidence of the insiders may explain the extraordinary demonstration in Steel certificates. But it does not seem probable that if the holders of the common are notified the shares are to remain at 2 per cent. yet a while the campaign can be maintained. The belief is growing that when J. P. Morgan attends the meeting July 27 something will be announced which will warrant the present range of quotations.

One of the most noticeable things in connection with the campaign in these securities is the comparatively small amount of the stock to be found in the average broker's office. Many commission houses say they are carrying less than at any previous time since the formation of the trust. Several declare that on the balance they are short.

The holdings of a few big speculators have been increased enormously. Some of these men are reported long to the extent of 20,000 to 50,000 shares each. These are the individuals who, it is declared, sat up at night indorsing certificates of Steel common to facilitate the sale of them when James R. Keene in 1901 was manipulating the price above 50. In those days the common stock of the company was given away to underwriters and promoters, practically by the truck load, as bonuses.

$ $ $

The work of the pool managers at this time has been comparatively easy, it is said, by reason of the fact that the floating supply of the stock is concentrated as it never was before. The Morgans have been the source of all inspirations in connection with the campaign and are still advising every purchaser to hold on. Inasmuch as many of their followers bought the shares between $25 and $30 it is considered remarkable that not one, so far as known has "cashed in" the large profits.

The latest tip is that the quotation for the common is to be put to 84, and that of the preferred to 130. The interesting question is, however, what is going to be done to enhance the apparent value of the stocks so as to induce the general public to come in and take them off the hands of the big bull speculators.

$ $ $

Another interesting feature in connection with the campaign in this industrial is the extent to which London has participated in it. It is said that the supply of calls in London on large blocks was exhausted long ago, and that recently London had bought calls on this side at the rate of 10 per cent. for the stock at 74 during the year. At this figure the quotation would have to pass the 84 notch to show a profit to the holder of the call.

$ $ $

It is quite safe to say that Illinois Central will not become a constituent part of the Union Pacific system, and further, it is not a reckless assertion that no important financiering is contemplated by the Illinois Central management at present. J. Ogden Armour, a prominent director, is authority for these statements. "I am unaware of any financial project contemplated by the Illinois Central. I cannot confirm the reports of a guarantee by the Union Pacific on Illinois Central stock. In the vernacular of the day, there is 'nothing of that kind doing.'

"I met Mr. Harriman in Paris a few days before I sailed for America. We talked over general and mutual interests, but there was nothing said—or even suggested—of what has been discussed in the street and printed in the newspapers lately regarding the Illinois Central. What the unusual activity and rise in the shares means I do not pretend to know."

A want advt. is often the road to fortune.

DURNING'S IDEAL VACATION TOUR

One of the best vacation tours under personal escort through the Maritime Provinces is Durning's Twelfth Annual Cruise via Plant Line, Tuesday, August 17. It includes the "Citadel Crowned City" of Halifax, Nova Scotia, the picturesque Straits of Canso, Cape Breton Island; St. George's Bay, Northumberland Sound, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, "The Garden of the Gulf," and two grand carriage tours through the "Garrisoned City" and Prince Edward Island, "A Paradise on Earth."

A special rate covers every item of expense from the time you sail until you return. Interesting descriptive itinerary with large colored map mailed free on application to Thomas H. Durning, tourist agent, 298 Washington street.

ELIOT HEAD OF MT. DESERT TRUSTEES

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 17.—President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, has been chosen president of an organization at Mt. Desert whose object is "the perpetual holding of places of interest and beauty on the island, and keeping them free and undisfigured for the benefit of the public." Its title is The Trustees of Public Reservations of Hancock County." It has no funds and is dependent upon those whose interest in its object leads them to contribute money or land. The first contribution of 125 acres, on which are some picturesque places, was made by Mrs. Charles D. Homans.

MORE TICKETS FOR NANTASKET SUNDAY

Yesterday the last of this week's free tickets for the attractions at Nantasket Beach were used by the Sunday American Outing Club, and the amusement places were kept busy afternoon and evening. The tickets were for the Lyric Theatre, Ye Old Mill, Grant's roller coaster and the merry-go-round, and a ticket and five cents in either instance yields ten cents' worth of fun. More Nantasket Beach tickets will be published in to-morrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN for use on Monday or Friday of next week.

TAX DEADLY WEAPONS.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—To tax every deadly weapon and every cartridge sold or manufactured in the United States is the purpose of a bill introduced in the House by Representative Sisson (Miss.). The measure provides a tax of $2 and 25 per cent. ad valorem on pistols, dirk knives, sword canes, stilettoes, brass or metallic knuckles and similar weapons.

LOCAL MARKET VERY BUOYANT

STATE STREET, July 17.—Noon—The local market continued buoyant this forenoon and prices reached higher price levels with a fair volume of business for a midsummer Saturday. There was some profit taking in Steel common after it reached another high record price at 73, but the tone remained good and public confidence is returning.

Copper continues weak, but the Street feels that this condition of the metal has been discounted and is willing to take on lines of good copper shares. Giroux, which has been well bought the past few days, rose to 9½ this forenoon and the buying was again for New York account.

Union Pacific made a high price at 197½ locally. Amalgamated also showed strength, stiffened almost a point to 82¼. There was no pressure in North Butte, and the price advanced to 52¼. Greene Cananea showed buoyancy by touching 9¾ and Copper Range improved to 81¾. American Telephone was active, but showed more or less realizing.

Curb business was quiet, although prices as a rule were firm. There were no particular features there.

PASTOR WILL UNVEIL STATUE OF MADONNA

The beautiful statue of the Madonna of Pompeii, which has arrived, will be seen by the public for the first time to-morrow at the Church of Santa Maria de Carmine, East Boston. It is the work of Luigi Cumbissi of Rome, Italy, and is to be donated as a gift to the church at the high mass. It will be placed on the right of the altar, where it will be blessed by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Francesco Liberti.

STEEL GOES TO 73 AT OPENING

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, July 17.—New high records for Steel common and Union Pacific were features of an active and strong market during the early trading in Wall street to-day. Steel common made its high record shortly after the opening of trading, when it sold at 73.

At the end of the first half hour Union Pacific was taken in hand and advanced 3¼ points to the new high record of 197¾. Strength of these two issue had a sympathetic influence on the balance of the list and gains averaging a point were scored by other standard railroad and industrial shares.

Amalgamated Copper shared in the general strength of the market and rose a point. American Ice was also conspicuous for its strength, rising two points. Toward the end of the first hour of the session the volume of business increased, and the market broadened. American shares were steady in London with the exception of the steel issues, which were a fraction lower.

Giroux was the strong feature on the curb. It advanced three-eighths of a point on moderate transactions. Other copper and silver shares were steady.

STEEL WORKERS SIGN WAGE SCALE

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 17.—Four thousand men will go to work Monday morning as a result of the renewal of last year's wage scale for another twelve months by the Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the Republic Iron & Steel Company. The conference was attended by eight members of the different departments of skilled work, the officers of the association and the president, vice-president and superintendent of the company.

BEST DAY OF THE WEEK IN REALTY FIELD

A large number of sales of important properties throughout the city were reported to-day, the number exceeding those of any day this week.

In the West End the four-story and basement brick house and land, assessed for a total of $30,500, at No. 2 Hancock street, have been sold by Clara G. Perry to Robert S. Gorham et al., trustees. The land is rated for $17,900.

In the Back Bay Charles J. Scheffreen has sold to Ezra F. Pratt his interest in the four-story swell-front brick dwelling house and 2,760 square feet of land at No. 64 Westland avenue, near Hemenway street. This estate is taxed on a total valuation of $23,000, of which $8,300 is on the land.

In Roxbury, Ezra F. Pratt has conveyed to Charles J. Scheffreen his interest in the "Glenwood," an eight-story granite apartment house, also containing stores, and 3,890 square feet of land at No. 49 Warren street, corner of Glenwood street, Roxbury. This property is assessed for a total of $73,600, of which $13,600 is on the land.

C. H. Lewis has sold to Charles P. Flagg the property at No. 48 Appleton street, consisting of a single brick dwelling, assessed for $5,000, and 1,093 square feet of land, assessed for $2,000. J. H. Lyons and H. J. Nazro were the brokers in the transaction.

A large sale of property in Roxbury is that of the lot of land, containing 27,500 square feet, on Ruggles street, extending through to Winthrop place, near Washington street, which has been sold by James P. Brennan to the city of Boston. The tract is assessed for a total of $27,500, or $1 per foot.

One of the largest sales in Dorchester for a long time is that by C. H. Lewis of the Easton Building, who has sold to Louville V. Niles of Wellesley, the property known as Bloomfield Hall and Stewart Building, Nos. 457-475 Geneva avenue, Nos. 1-5 Tonawanda street, and Nos. 4-6 Bloomfield street, consisting of 20,824 square feet of land taxed for $8,300, and a three and one-half story brick building taxed for $45,000. The building contains eight stores, one nine-room apartment, a large hall with balcony, two large banquet halls and a large lodge room hall. Mr. Niles has bought for permanent investment. J. H. Lyons and H. J. Nazro of No. 15 State street were the brokers in the transaction.

C. H. Lewis has bought of Charles P. Flagg the property numbered 33 East River street, Hyde Park, consisting of a single frame house and about 18,000 square feet of land. Total taxed value $8,000. H. J. Nazro and J. H. Lyons were the brokers.

C. H. Lewis has bought of Louville V. Niles a large, new, modern, single house situated in Winchester, on Ravenscroft road with about 10,000 square feet of land with a total tax of $18,000. H. J. Nazro and J. H. Lyons were the brokers.

Mr. Lewis has sold to Julian E. Severance the property number 150 Union street, Brighton, consisting of a single frame house and about 11,000 square feet of land, total assessed value $3,800. Edward M. Saunders was the broker.

CITY LIGHT CONTRACT IS NOT SIGNED

Superintendent of Streets Guy C. Emerson to-day denied that he had signed a lighting contract with the Greater Boston Illuminating Company, as reported. He said:

"Any statement that I have signed the lighting contract with the Greater Boston Illuminating Company is false. As a matter of fact I informally awarded the contract to this concern some time ago. It was by far the lowest bidder and I could not consistently do otherwise. The company, however, has thus far failed to furnish the $50,000 bond that we require. I have given the company until Monday noon to file a bond and if that is done before Monday noon I will undoubtedly sign the contract."

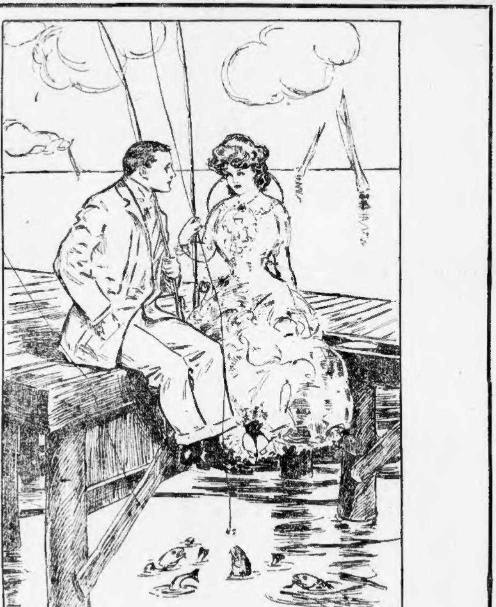
TIN PLATE MILL ASKS INJUNCTION

WHEELING, W. Va., July 17.—A suit for an injunction has been filed in the United States Circuit Court by the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company against thirteen strikers at the Labelle plant, and notice is also given that a restraining order against the strikers will be asked. The company alleges that William Egan, who has been employing men to operate the plants, was attacked, and also that threats had been made by the strikers that the plaintiff shall not operate its mills.

Special Notice.

WHY IT IS SO

When it is known that its power to strengthen the system and build up the body is why Father John's Medicine cures colds and all throat and lung troubles, it will be understood why it is so valuable as a tonic and for driving the impurities out of the blood. It feeds the tissues and makes strength.



They call it fishing---but you and I know what it is

THIS is only one of four similarly charming drawings by Penrhyn Stanlaws in the big, delightfully summery August COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE—now out.

The others deal with what "they call" automobiling, golfing and landscape painting, and all of them are just the kind of things you like to cut out and pin up somewhere.

BOSTON WOOL MEN IN SECRET DEAL TO KEEP TARIFF HIGH

William Whitman of Boston, president of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, and Fred W. Gooding, of Shoshone, Idaho, were the leading spirits in a secret deal, made last October, whereby the Dingley bill schedules on wool were to be retained in the new tariff bill, according to to-day's New York World.

The conferrees yesterday agreed to retain the Dingley schedule without change, except as to wool tops, after the House had made material reductions. The World says:

The man in the street who is facing the payment of $22 or $23 for his next suit of clothes, of exactly the same material and workmanship that he has been buying for $18, may have thought he had the least little bit of share in framing a new tariff law when he voted for somebody or other for Congress and for other somebodies for a Legislature which elected somebody else to the United States Senate.

He may have thought that he, as a consumer and voter, had something to say about taxation with representation, but he was so far mistaken that three weeks before he had cast his vote the wool interests had saved him the trouble of deciding for himself and had arranged very effectively just what he should pay for next Winter's suit.

Proved by Documents.

That deal was effected, as is proved by documentary evidence, at a secret conference held October 15 last in Chicago between representatives of the wool manufacturers of the East and the wool growers of the West.

The parties to the deal to maintain the Dingley rates on wool and woolen goods pledged themselves at this conference to do everything in their power to influence the Senators and Reuresentatives from their States to "stand pat" on the wool schedule.

How well they succeeded is shown by the solid working agreement with Senator Aldrich of the representatives of the sheep-raising States with those from the wool-manufacturing States.

Mr. Whitman's big Arlington mills were already capitalized at $8,000,000, and although Congress was supposed to be debating the wool and other schedules, with the apparent possibility of reducing the duties to a point that might seriously affect the wool manufacturers in this country, Mr. Whitman put out an additional issue of $2,000,000 in stock last April.

Mr. Whitman displayed the same confidence that the cotton schedules would not be seriously interfered with when, in the latter part of June, he organized the Nashawena Mills at New Bedford with a capital stock of $2,500,000. That stock was sold through Brown Brothers & Co. of Boston at about $103 a share.

Price of Wool Goes Up.

And about the same time, when the tariff on wool was supposed to be subject to a material reduction, the price of the raw material began to advance, to the great joy of the Western partners in the Chicago deal, the sheep raisers.

When Mr. Whitman was asked at his office in Boston, No. 78 Chauncy street, what he had to say regarding the Chicago agreement he made this surprising statement:

"That conference was held and the fact that the two interests in the wool industry, the growers and the manufacturers, were united to retain the existing wool schedule is the proudest achievement of my life.

"I had confidence that the present Congress would not materially reduce the duties on wool and woollen goods, or I would not have branched out largely in business. I may be mistaken; no man is infallible, but I was correct in my forecast as to what former Congresses would do and I think I am right in my opinion as to what will be the final result of this tariff debate.

"As a matter of fact, this entire discussion is unnecessary and absurd. Its only effect has been to hold back the development of business for months, and when it is all over you will see that we shall have practically the same tariff we have had for the last twelve years."

Charged With Bad Faith.

The carded wool men accuse Mr. Whitman of bad faith in the deal with the Western sheep men. Arthur Wheelock, secretary of the Carded Woollen Association, recently organized, made this statement to-day:

"As early as last November, before any of the textile hearings had been held, views with which the Carded Woollen Manufacturers' Association is now in complete agreement, were stated at a meeting of the so-called National Association of Wool Manufacturers by Edward Moir, who also protested vigorously against the secret manner in which Mr. Whitman, without consulting with the other members, had taken it upon himself to enter into what he called a 'solemn compact' with the sheep ranchmen of the Far West to oppose all changes in the schedule."

The American Wool and Cotton Reporter, the recognized organ of the wool industry in this country, went so far in a recent issue as to say:

Whitman is Scored.

"The exhibitions of greed and avarice at Washington by men like Whitman are doing more injury to American civic consciousness than the social evil of all the cities of the United States. If President Taft will keep his pledge for a tariff commission, and will appoint strong and wise men thereon, he will relieve the nation from the perennial disgrace of the manoeuvres of men like Whitman at the capital of the republic. They will then appear as witnesses with no more influence than a multitude of other citizens."

Winthrop L. Marvin of Boston is mentioned by the World as another concerned in the conference.

GIRL COUNT BONI CALLS HIS FIANCEE TO OBTAIN CREDIT

Miss Marjorie Gould.
Copyright by Marceau 1908.

By VANCE THOMPSON.

PARIS, July 17.—Incredible as the story may seem, it is believed among certain well informed people that Count Boni de Castellane has been re-establishing his credit around Paris by repeating "confidentially" that he is shortly to marry Miss Marjorie Gould, daughter of George Gould, when his finances would be fixed up to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Preposterous as such story would appear, it is believed at the Pre Catelane, the fashionable adjunct of the Cafe de Paris in the Bois de Boulogne, where Count Boni has been lately giving entertainments rivalling those of Frederick Townsend Martin in luxury.

When asked if Count Boni paid his bills the maitre d'hotel of the Chatelaine replied: "No; but I have no fear of giving him all the credit he wants since Castellane is to marry Miss Gould."

The only condition that lends the slightest possible color to such an assertion is the fact that Mrs. George Gould and Miss Marjorie Gould have been seen among the guests of Count Boni at these entertainments.

Mrs. Gould's friends say that she never had any particularly unkind feelings toward Boni.

MISS TAFT A GUEST AT THE BEVERLY CLUB

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Miss Mabel Boardman entertained Miss Helen Taft this week at the clubhouse in Beverly. A number of the younger set of the Summer colony were presented to the daughter of the President, while she watched the tennis match between her brother, Robert A. Taft and Captain de Cambrun of the French Embassy.

Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Sargent (Aimee Rotch) of Commonwealth avenue have been at their Summer home in Fishkill, New York, and have this week gone to North east Harbor for the remainder of the season.

George E. Learned of Boston celebrated his birthday by a dinner at the Narragansett Pier Casino yesterday. Among his guests were Mr. and Mrs. Laurence, Miss Eleanor Browning, Harry Batcheller, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hanan, Albert S. Church and Lawrence Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Noyes of Boston are at the Imperial at Narragansett Pier.

* * *

An important wedding was that of Harry Eugene Wood Thursday evening to Miss Maude Ballard, daughter of Mrs. Anne J. Ballard and the late Henry Ballard of Winthrop and Burlington, Vt. Mr. Wood was graduated from the University of Vermont three years ago. Miss Elsie M. Brown of Hyde Park attended as maid of honor, and the best man was Guy M. Page of Burlington. Hugh H. Henry and Charles R. Wilder of Boston were the ushers. The ceremony took place in St. John's Episcopal Church in Winthrop and was performed by the Rev. C. W. Henry.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Burnham of Boston, parents of Mrs. Austen Gray, arrived in Newport yesterday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Gray. Miss Alice Burnham accompanied them.

The engagement is announced of Miss Gertrude Yeames, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. James Yeames of Arlington, to Professor Elon Howard Eaton of Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y.

* * *

Professor Alexander Agassiz of Cambridge was one of the Newport Summer residents who entertained friends at dinner last evening. Among the recent arrivals at Bar Harbor are Mr. and Mrs. William Calem Loring, Miss Laura Loring, and Miss May Loring of Boston, and the Misses Florence A. and Elizabeth Robinson of Middleboro.

Mrs. Robert Winthrop is expected at the Ethelwyn in Lenox to-day. Grenville L. Winthrop and the Misses Winthrop have arrived from abroad and are at Groton Place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Baty Blake have gone to Lenox and are now at their Summer home, the Needles. They have been spending the early Summer with Mrs. Arthur Hunnewell at Wellesley.

Mrs. William L. Putnam of Beacon street entertains a large number of Manchester society folk at her Smith's Point home to-day.

VIRGINIA HARNED, SECRET GUEST OF FRANCIS KINGDON

ATHOL, July 17.—Miss Virginia Harned, the actress, who was recently denied a divorce from her husband, E. H. Sothern, by a Reno, Nevada, judge, has arrived at "The Ranch," the Summer home of Francis Kingdom, the actor, on Pequorg avenue.

Miss Harned came to Athol evidently thinking she would be free from reporters, and she has been sadly disappointed. Ever since the talented actress has arrived here all the local newspapermen have been camping on her trial. So far she has managed to avoid them, but she is apparently greatly annoyed for she rarely leaves "The Ranch" without a male escort of huge stature.

When a reporter drove to "The Ranch" and asked for Miss Harned the call was answered by a servant who said Miss Harned was not there.

The reporter then called "The Ranch" on the telephone and the following conversation ensued:

"Hello. Is this Virginia Harned?"

"Yes, who is this please?"

"This is a reporter for—"

"Oh, dear" Miss Harned exclaimed. "I will not talk to any reporter, and you need not try to seek an interview."

"Are you to remain in Athol, or, are you going back to Reno?" the reporter continued.

"I will not discuss any of my affairs and it is a shame I cannot escape notoriety in this quiet place."

"Have you given up your plans of obtaining a divorce from E. H. Sothern?" she was asked.

"I tell you I will have nothing whatever to say," and she banged the receiver on the hook to emphasize her remark.

HUSBAND IN CHESBROUGH TANGLE ALSO

More mystery has been added to the smuggling of the $2,000 pearl necklace, for which Mrs. Fremont B. Chesbrough of Newton is under indictment by the Federal Court at Trenton, N. J., and to-day Newton and Boston society was surprised to learn that her husband, the millionaire ship owner, who has surrendered the pearls, has become entangled in the matter. His statements, made under oath, are contradicted by treasury agents.

Mrs. Chesbrough could not be found at her home in Newton to-day, but from other sources it was said that she was in a sanitarium, broken in health as a result of the worry over the consequences of a charge of smuggling which has been hanging over her since her arrival in this country on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. on May 25.

The Federal Grand Jury at Trenton has not yet issued a bench warrant, but it is likely that Mrs. Chesbrough will be summoned before that body in a few days.

Will Face Charges.

To a newspaper representative recently she said that she was ready to face the charges and would go to Trenton when needed.

When Mrs. Chesbrough landed she declared that her dutiable goods were valued at $109.60. The inspectors found a second bottom in the trunk, under which were valuable furs and wearing apparel. She said this was put there to protect the furs.

"I hired a man in Paris to pack the trunk," she said, "and he told me I need not declare anything under the board."

Mr. Chesbrough was summoned to New York, and he ridiculed the smuggling charges against his wife. Two empty jewel boxes under this board also caused her to be questioned. She said her husband had preceded her and had brought over some jewels. In his declaration the agents found no mention of jewels.

Turns Over Necklace.

Definite evidence concerning the pearl necklace was found in the trunk in the shape of a bill for 90,000 francs. Mr. Chesbrough was asked where this necklace was. Finally he was put under oath in the office of Deputy Surveyor Smyth and formally interrogated about the necklace. He said he had shipped the necklace direct from Paris to Toronto, and that it was in a safe deposit vault in the Bank of Toronto. He said his purpose in sending it to Canada instead of bringing it into this country was to wait until the new tariff law became effective, as he believed the duty on pearls would be materially lowered. The present duty is 60 per cent. on set pearls, and on the $23,000 valuation placed by the Government experts on the necklace it would pay a duty of $13,800, a total value of $36,800.

The books of the American Express Company and the Bank of Toronto revealed no record of a package of jewels belonging to Mr. Chesbrough.

Mr. Chesbrough was then told plainly that he must surrender the necklace.

AT 101 TALKS WITH HUSBAND DEAD 22 YEARS

WORCESTER, July 17.—That she talked with the spirit of her departed husband, who had been dead for twenty-two years, is the astounding declaration of Mrs. Susan B. Everett of Leominster, mother of Mrs. Mary W. Brown of Brookline. The spirit talk took place on Mrs. Everett's one hundred and first birthday, which she observed Thursday.

For years Mrs. Everett has been a student of spiritualism. According to her daughter, Mrs. Melissa Puffer of No. 141 West street, Leominster, with whom she makes her home, Mrs. Everett awakened the household on the night of her birthday by her conversation with the spirit world.

Not only has she held conversations with relatives, but long departed friends are frequently talked with, always, however, at the dead hours of night.

Spirit Talked of Old Days.

During the conversation Mrs. Everett told of the happy events of her birthday. The answer which she received was evidently satisfactory, for she replied that she would not be on earth much longer before joining her husband's spirit.

The following morning she told of her conversation. She said that she was awakened by her husband's spirit during the night; that the spirit had come to her every birthday, Christmas and anniversary since her husband's death, and that she had fallen asleep waiting for it to appear.

She said that the spirit talked of past birthdays, when her husband had been alive, and that it promised to return to her again at Christmas.

Spirit Visits While Awake.

Mrs. Everett has talked with the spirit world frequently. She says that almost always she has conversed with spirits when lying awake thinking of past events, and that but seldom does she converse with the spirits after she has fallen asleep.

She says that in talking with her husband's spirit she has been unable to receive answers to her questions regarding the life hereafter, but that any question regarding her husband's life on earth are promptly answered.

NEW TURN IN WIDOWS' WAR

A sensation was sprung to-day in the fight over the $10,000 estate left by Benjamin S. Robinson of Everett, which is claimed by two women, each of whom says she is the legal widow, when Mrs. Mary L. Doane of Harwichport asked that the administratrix, Mrs. Rose M. Robinson, be removed. The contest over the will was heard last Fall by Judge Lawton in the Middlesex Probate Court at Cambridge, and he reserved decision. In this latest move he has set July 22 as the date of hearing.

Mrs. Rose M. Robinson lived with Robinson at the time of his death in 1905. He left no will. Mrs. Doane is a sister and the only heir-at-law. The other claimant is Mrs. Lizzie B. Robinson of Boston. Mrs. Doane charges that Mrs. Robinson No. 1 has neglected her duties and has done nothing toward settling the estate.

TEHERAN ONCE MORE ORDERLY

TEHERAN, July 17.—To-day was the first in Persia under the regime of Crown Prince Sultan Ahmed Mirza and the regency of Azad Ul Hulk. The city began to take some semblance of order to-day. Siphdar, the new Minister of War, has begun actively to restore the troops to their barracks. Strict orders about looting have been issued.

General Liaknoff will remain in command of the Cossack brigade, provided he obeys the orders of the new War Minister without question. The former Shah, with his wife, son and a number of loyal retainers, is at the Russian Summer legation at Zerzen. Previous to his capitulation the English and Russian legations had agreed upon surrender. A guard of Sepoys has been placed at his disposal for guardsmen.

ASK 85,000 TO HELP BAKERS

Started by the 2,000 organized cigarmakers belonging to the local union of that craft, a strong movement is under way to unionize one of the largest bakeries in Greater Boston, and Henry Abrahams, secretary of the Central Labor Union, and secretary-treasurer of the Cigarmakers' Union, stated to-day that every one of the 85,000 union men of Boston would be asked to "help the good work along."

"We are not planning a boycott in any sense of the term," Mr. Abrahams said to-day, explaining the new movement undertaken to build up the bakers' local union. "We are, however, determined to stand by our friends, and we also expect that our friends will stand by us, particularly the storekeepers, restaurant men and hotel proprietors whom we patronize.

"All we ask of such men (and the request seems to us a reasonable one) is that they in turn request the men they buy bread from to place the union label on that bread. As union men we are justified in making this request."

FREE COUPONS FOR THE WHITE CITY

See to-morrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN for free tickets to White City, Worcester, the palace park on the shore of Lake Quinsigamond. Admission to the park is free. The tickets give a free ten-cent seat in the big theatre and a visit to Paradise, where they give fire dances and wonderful illusions. These, with five other half-fare tickets, will be published in the SUNDAY AMERICAN for "Hy" Nichols' jungle, the flying horses, scenic railway, mammoth chutes and the airships.

SEE THE MENAGERIE AT LEXINGTON PARK

Next Tuesday and Friday the Sunday American Outing Club will visit Lexington Park. "The biggest menagerie in the United States" is what Manager Benson says of his zoological show at Lexington Park, the great inland park of Lexington town, where most everything inside the gate is free. The SUNDAY AMERICAN will publish free tickets for Lexington Park admission good on Tuesday or Friday, and the theatre is free in the afternoon.

NOTICE

Certain florists of this city in soliciting orders for flowers for funerals are so lost in their zeal to obtain business as to fail to appreciate the amenities due the grief-stricken, and inconsiderately intrude themselves or their grasping representatives on families suffering from the shock incident to the loss of those near and dear to them. These ghouls of the business are frequently rebuked by the indignant mourners and friends of the deceased, but their actions sometimes tend to create a false impression of the methods employed in the flower business, and those of us who conduct our efforts along legitimate lines are often unjustifiably criticised. We appreciate that flowers as a gift are usually the best external evidence that persons have of showing their sentiments towards the departed and their family, but we most emphatically disapprove of the tactics employed by the inconsiderate element referred to. Their importunities have grown akin to a common nuisance, and my purpose in writing this letter in behalf of my fellow florists is to ask the public to aid the reputable dealers in our efforts to correct the abuses by giving short shrift to these objectionable solicitors.

Yours truly,

Thos. F. Galvin

USES WEALTHY WOMAN'S NAME

NEW YORK, July 17.—The mystery as to the identity of the woman who is being searched for throughout Rhode Island was deepened by the declaration of Mrs. James B. Kinney, of New York and Staten Island, that she has been informed her name is being used by this person.

To stop this and try, if possible, to find out who the woman really is, Mrs. Kinney, through her attorney, Jesse W. Johnson, of No. 189 Montague street, Brooklyn, has communicated with the police of New York and Providence.

"Mrs. Kinney telephoned me," Mr. Johnson said, "that the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company had informed her of a certain woman who was using her name and leading a wild sort of life in the towns and cities of Rhode Island. She was greatly disturbed, and requested me to do what I could to find who the person is and stop the practice.

MARIE CAHILL SEEKS TO SAVE SONG MELODY

Claiming that the melody of one of her best songs had been stolen, Marie Cahill, the star of "The Boys and Betty," has applied to the New York Supreme Court for an order restraining Joseph E. Howard, the composer, from publishing or using in any way his song, "I Hear the Woodpecker Tapping on My Family Tree." Silvio Hein, her musical conductor, is aiding Miss Cahill in the fight she is making. They allege that the music of the song is a direct theft from the air of "The Arab Love Song," which was the hit of Miss Cahill's latest show.

Good Things to Eat.

Native green corn at 75 cents a dozen is the latest offering in the market. Strawberries are disappearing. Most of the present supply comes from Nova Scotia. Blackberries, blueberries and raspberries are plentiful.

Cantaloupes, pears and tomatoes are a little high, but a reduction is expected soon. Native beans of all kinds are offered.

Beef is tending toward a slight rise in price; lamb is still high and pork has advanced a cent or two. Broilers are lower. The western broilers are 25 to 28 cents a pound, and fresh killed natives are 35 cents.

Native chickens are high, bringing 45 cents a pound. Turkeys are selling at from 28 to 30 cents a pound.

Squabs are being marketed at from $3.50 to $4.00 a dozen. Pigeons are lower, selling at $2.50 a dozen.

The best Georgia peaches are moving rather slowly at more than 4 cents apiece. The best oranges are being marketed for 60 cents a dozen. Strawberries are bringing upwards of 25 cents a box and are getting scarcer every day.

Tomatoes are scarce, as the Southern products are disappearing and it is rather early for the natives. Best tomatoes are bringing 25 cents a pound, which is high for this season of the year.

Fish is plentiful and the prices are comparatively low. Cod and haddock bring 8 cents a pound. Lobsters are scarce, and the prices are soaring above 30 cents a pound. Fresh halibut is selling at 20 to 25 cents a pound.

Fresh mackerel are selling from 25 to 35 cents apiece. Bluefish is easing off at 20 cents a pound.

Rump steak costs from 33 to 35 cents a pound and porterhouse steak is selling at 28 cents.

Veal steak is also higher, selling for 35 cents a pound. The cheapest thing in the markets to-day are pigs feet and liver at 10 cents a pound.

Hindquarters of lamb are 22 cents a pound, while forequarters are plentiful at 11 cents. Short chops have soared to 28 cents a pound.

The AMERICAN is the great Home paper.

WONDERLAND'S WONDERS FREE

Among the talented young artists appearing in Wonderland's big out-door production is Miss Beatrice Abley, sixteen years of, age who has been photographed, modeled and exploited all over the country, as a child marvel, and who fits into the Wonderland production with the same skill and attention to detail that characterized her earlier efforts in dramatics. Miss Blanche Benton and Margaret Meredith are making strong character hits at every performance. "Cinderella" is put on promptly at 8:30 every evening and lasts over an hour.

In the vaudeville show new acts are presented this week by Plunkett and Ritter, the cowboy quartette, and by the Sol Baxter company. There will be an entire change of program next week. The vaudeville, as well as free park admission and magnificent out-door production of "Cinderella," is free to SUNDAY AMERICAN readers on Monday or Tuesday, day or night, and a new set of free tickets, fourteen in number, will be published in to-morrow's AMERICAN. The Prophet and Princess, Brenck's Golden Graces, the girl minstrels and moving pictures theatre are are at their best, drawing large houses. These and the park's fine riders are visited by SUNDAY AMERICAN readers with half fare coupons each week and are immensely popular at al times. Children under twelve with adults are admitted free up to six o'clock and the combination tickets, giving ten park shows and admission at the gate, are going like hot cakes. Yes, and Liltle Ikey Callahan and his brand new girl are are on the job day and evening. They are coming up town to do some more shopping within a day or two, and this will be an event in Boston's business centre.

DOCTOR SAVES TWO GIRLS FROM DEATH

Two girls who had gotten beyond their depth while bathing off Hayward Grove, Quincy, and who had all but drowned a man who was trying to rescue them, were saved from death by Medical Examiner Fred E. Jones and his brother, Albert M. Jones of Quincy, who, while undressing in one of the bath houses, heard their cries and plunged in with the greater part of their clothes on. The girls were Ida Moir, age twenty, of Washington street, Braintree and Edna Margeson, age eighteen, of Hyde Park.

HAVERHILL MAN IS DEAD IN MANILA

HAVERHILL, July 17.—The death of Thomas F. Crowley, a captain of police at Manila, was reported in a telegram from the War Department at Washington to Captain Crowley's mother, Mrs. Crowley, who lives at No. 2 Kimball street.

Captain Crowley was formerly a lieutenant in the Eighth Massachusetts Regiment of Infantry, afterward becoming an officer in the Forty-second United States Volunteers, which served in the Philippines.

ROOSEVELT'S STORY READY

NEW YORK, July 17.—Writing of Africa, a country in which he says "zebras are as common to me as automobiles," Theodore Roosevelt will impart his experiences as explorer, hunter, naturalist, fauna and animal collector in a New York magazine for October, when the first of his series of articles will be presented.

His opening article will bear the caption "A Railroad Through the Pleistocene," and it will describe his trip on the cowcatcher of a locomotive and the earlier days of his hunting experiences. The second article, in November, will carry the reader into the lion country and will describe various adventures with the monarchs of the jungle and other big game.

The articles will be illustrated with reproductions of photographs taken by Kermit Roosevelt, many of them good, others indifferent.

Mr. Roosevelt's articles are written by his own hand. He employes no stenographer, but writes with indelible pencils on ordinary writing pads. By the use of carbon sheets three copies of each article are made. Two of these are sent, registered, at different intervals to the publishers, the third being retained by Mr. Roosevelt. This plan was adopted to prevent loss of material in the foreign mails.

EAST BOSTON MILLS TO COST $5,000,000

Boston and Rhode Island capitalists, headed by Eugene N. Foss, have completed their plans for the erection of one of the largest groups of cotton mills in New England on Saratoga street, East Boston, to cost about $5,000,000. The contract to build the mills will be awarded next week.

Work on the first mill, which will cost $1,250,000, will begin at once, and it is expected the weave room will be in operation by December 1, although the whole mill will not be in operation before next March. Over 3,000 men will be employed when the mills are finished.

OLDEST WOMAN IN MAINE DEAD AT 111

LEWISTON, Me., July 17.—Mrs. Margaret McCarthy, the oldest woman in Maine and one of the most remarkable in all New England, died here. She was 111 years old, her age being substantiated by the records. She was born in Ireland.

FITZGERALD IN RACE TO STAY

In this week's issue of his paper, The Republic, ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald is referred to as having no intention of withdrawing his mayoralty candidacy.

In discussing the O'Neil candidacy he says: "There is no truth in the story that in the event of Mr. Fitzgerald's withdrawal he would call upon his friends to get into the O'Neil camp. Mr. Fitzgerald has no intention of withdrawing. Stories of varying degrees of intensity are spread broadcast as to Mr. Fitzgerald's intentions every day. Altogether too many of them to do Mr. Neil any good come from the camp of his followers. About the first of October there will be something doing in the political field worth talking about, and it is the wise ones who are going to be fooled."

Of John R. Murphy the Republic says:

"We do not notice any great rush to the John R. Murphy band wagon. When Mr. Murphy is in good we will make some pertinent observations on his candidacy."

HOTEL CLERK GETS 4-MONTH SENTENCE

Thomas Kiley, thirty-nine years of age, night clerk at the Arcadia Inn, No. 1,202 Washington street, arrested on the charge of the attempted larceny of $110 from George C. Perkins of Brockton, was to-day sent to the county jail for four months by Judge Wentworth. Between certain of the sleeping rooms in the hotel the partitions do not run to the ceiling. Kiley, it was testified, armed with a boathook, was trying to steal Perkins's trousers when they fell, awakening him. Perkins ran for a policeman and the man was arrested.

FILE 18-WORD WILL OF WAR VETERAN

Davis Howard of Brookline, a Civil War veteran, who died recently, used but eighteen words to dispose of his property. He left about $3,000. His will, filed at the Probate Court in Dedham to-day, reads:

"All of my real estate and personal property, wherever such may be found, to my wife, Josephine Howard."

UHLAN TROTS MILE IN 2:09¼ AT READVILLE

Trainer Bob Proctor set a new record for the year for Readville track by working the trotting gelding Uhlan, 2:07¼, a couple of miles in 2:09¼ and 2:09¾, stepping him along the final quarter in 30½ seconds. He is in the finest possible shape for his coming campaign which begins at the Cleveland Grand Circuit meeting next month.

Another excellent mile was made by the stallion Sir Todd, 2:26½, Jimmy O'Donnell letting him have his head for a circle of the course in 2:12, the final quarter in 31 seconds. He is up to going the distance now in better than 2:10.

A three-year-old that attracted notice was Belle Visha, by Bingara, that Trainer Morgan worked in 2:21¼, the last half in 1:08¾, and she accomplished the act so handily that the railbirds count her future as full of promise. The yearling trotter Cochato Boy, by Cochato, 2:11½, Morgan worked an eight in 18¼ seconds a 2:26 gait. Being only broken six weeks and fourteen months old surely shows he is a precocious youngster.

Proctor finished up his day's work on the track by trying out the two-year-old colt Bon Vivant that he got in his string this week from California. He is the property of W. A. Clark, Jr., and before leaving the Pacific coast went a trial in 2:20¼. Even after his long trip he showed Bob the signs of being wonderfully fast in the brush through the homestretch.

COBB NOT TO QUIT.

DETROIT, Mich., July 17.—"Quit baseball? Not as long as I can play," said Tyrus Cobb, right fielder of the Detroit American league champions, when asked to-day about a story from Macon, Ga., that he was contemplating retiring from baseball in favor of the automobile business.

WONDERFUL COLT PACER.

The two-year-old pacer Leelock, by Blacklock, 2:04½, is a real sensation and no mistake. William Rash drove Leelock a mile in 2:11, the first and last quarters in 30½ seconds each. Rash says that he don't know how fast the colt can pace.

CAN BEAT DENVER.

Will Crozier has a green trotter in his stable at Charter Oak that he considers the making of even a faster horse than Denver, which he sold to George Estabrook last Fall.

PACER SAVED OVER.

Evelyn W., 2:15½, showed Bert Shank a mile in 2:07 the other morning and General Chisholm has decided to keep her over for the Chamber of Commerce next year.

BAT BALKS ON LONG BATTLE WITH WOLGAST

By H. M. WALKER.

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—Battling Nelson left at 9:45 this morning for New York, where he goes as the guest of the Evening Journal to appear as the main attraction in the big benefit to be given the latter part of this month for the Newsboys' Home Fund. Nelson plans to return at once to California, going to the home of a friend at Glendora for a long visit and rest.

"I have made five round trips, ocean to ocean since the first of the year and I am 'railroaded' to death," is the way Nelson puts it.

When he was told that Wolgast was challenging him for a finish fight, Nelson bluntly stated that he did not care to tackle Ad Wolgast over the long route.

"The boy is too young and tough for me to monkey with,' said the champion. "I am not kidding. I found this out the other night. I will take him on for another short distance fight when I get right. If I am satisfied at the outcome of this then I may sign up for a finish bout with Wolgast."

COMISKEY FAVORS ONE BIG LEAGUE

CHICAGO, July 16.—President Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox thinks the plan of combining the American and National Leagues under one executive is feasible. He is quoted as stating that he believes such a scheme would ultimately make for the best interests of baseball. The master of the White Sox also thought Ban Johnson would be a good executive for the combination league.

President Murphy of the Cubs refused to discuss the report, but "Tip" O'Neill, president of the Western League, said: "If you want to kill the game, why, that's the plan they want to carry out. It would be nothing but syndicate baseball."

INDIA PANIS RACES ALTRO L. IN SPECIAL

Ten races are scheduled by the Old Colony Driving Club for decision Saturday at the South Weymouth Fair Grounds. The old rivals, Altro L. and India Panis, are down to clash in one of the classes, while Willie John, Winaka and Nina B. will make a hard struggle in trying to head the summary of their race. The friends of Louise D., Rex, Willie J., Young Bayard and Lord Minto will gather in force to root for their favorite, there being great interest in which is the faster horse.

BOSTON TYPO TEAM TO PLAY

The South Boston Red Sox and the Champion Newspaper Baseball Team will meet at the American League grounds Monday afternoon, and the entire proceeds of the game will be given to Mrs. Augustine McCraith and son, the widow and child of Augustine McCraith, who at different times served Boston Typographical Union No. 13 as president and secretary.

A red hot game is promised, the Red Sox of South Boston being classed as top notchers in the amateur ranks, while the newspaper boys are the pick of the union printers employed on the various papers of Boston, and are the men selected to represent Boston Typographical Union at the coming series of games in Chicago.

Baseball News and Notes

"The Phillies cannot catch us now," says Cincinnati's manager. Right, Mr. Griffiths. About the only thing the poor Phillies are in danger of catching is the dickens.

* * *

Detroit gets the Elks' convention for next year. Boston fans will not object, provided Detroit does not get the American League pennant.

* * *

Mr. Joss, whose name is a reminder of Chinatown, continues to be a Chinese puzzle to all the teams.

* * *

Jack Murphy of the Giants was recently asked who was the father of baseball. "I don't know," he answered. "But I do know who the present father of baseball is. It's Mr. Parent of the White Sox." Whereupon Bugs Raymond hit him with a bat.

* * *

The Boston Nationals have a chance of surpassing all other teams in consecutive defeats for 1909. They lost thirteen straight, then won a game, followed with six straight defeats before they took a game from the Cubs, and then came right back with eleven straight losses before they took a double-header from the Phillies.

* * *

The whereabouts of Bill Hoffer, who was the sensation of the National League during the middle '90s, has been discovered. The famous Oriole flinger is in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the place where Ned Hanlon first spied him.

* * *

The Detroits were the first major league team to win a season's series. They have taken twelve games from the Browns already, which insures them a majority of the full quota of twenty-two.

* * *

This is Frank Schulte's last season with the Cubs. He has purchased a saloon in Syracuse, N. Y., and claims that he will devote all his time and attention to that business hereafter.

* * *

Jack Hannifan sure is showing class with the stick. He only batted 1.000 the other day for Buffalo. He promenaded once, rung in a sacrifice and got in two healthy bingles to the outfield.

* * *

Charley Ganzel trotted out to see a game of ball in New Bedford not long ago, and it so happened that the substitute umpire delegated to take charge of the game contracted cold feet and did not appear. Charley was pressed into service and the veteran umpired a splendid game. One of the youngsters attempted to teach the vet a lesson on the rules, but Charley said, "Young man, don't try to teach me anything about the rules. I have been playing the game longer than you've been living."

* * *

The latest message from Congress says that Joe Cantillon is going to give up his job as manager of the Washington club on August 1. Joe has about grown tired of the way things have been breaking for him. Jiggs Donohue is slated to jump and take up the burden as manager of the team. Jiggs was slated to get the job next season, but it is likely that the owners of the Nationals want to start his trouble before then.

* * *

Eddie Collins, that young skipper who plays second base for the Athletics, and who can play it some, is the first player to grab off 100 hits in the big league show. Wagner and Collins have been running a close heat for the first player to reach par in the base hit column. Collins tore off three hits in Detroit, and this put him to the century mark in base hits.

* * *

Admiral Schlei may not be as aggressive as Roger Bresnahan behind the bat, but he is among the good catchers we have in the game. He is steady and does good work behind the bat with all kinds of pitching. His throwing is also fine. He has been running in hard luck in the hitting line, but he is a good hitter.

* * *

Devlin of the Giants goes along and plays the same steady game at third base. He makes plays every day that are passed up by the fans, but they are hard ones just the same. Devlin comes close to being in a class with the best of the third sackers [illegible] in the game nowadays.

BIG DRY GOODS TEAMS MEET ON DIAMOND

Just how our retail dry goods ball players compare with those of New York will be settled this afternoon up at the American League park, as the nine from the R. H. Macy & Co. store arrived this morning to tackle the Houghton & Dutton team on the diamond and decide intercity rivalry.

It's the biggest game of the season for the dry goods houses and the first time in the history of the sport that a Gotham team has come over to the Hub to pick off the honors in the trade side of the sport.

The Houghton & Dutton team is one of the best of the dry goods combinations ever turned out and the New Yorkers have their hands full to conquer the local ball tossers.

The contest between the two big department stores will start at 3 o'clock, but half an hour before the bell rings Teele's Band will give a concert to start the event off right.

FOUR BIKE STARS MEET

With two big bike events on the card, the racing at the Revere track to-night looks pretty good.

In the twenty-five-mile motor paced race there are four riders in the list, which promises to make it one of the most interesting four-cornered affairs that has taken place at the beach oval.

Galvin, the veteran six-day rider, who has been doing a lot of speeding on the Jersey tracks; Harry Caldwell, the fast Hartford man; Peter Drobeck, the South Boston boy, who won second to Jimmy Moran at Newark the other night, and Fred Hill, the Waltham star, make up the field.

It's practically impossible to pick a winner in the bunch and the four will scrap it out for the whole distance.

The sprint championship between Tom Connolly and Clarence Carmen of New York for the American title is an event which will thrill the bleachers, who have seen Connolly trim all the local boys time and time again. Connolly is up against real class this time and a win will give him national fame. They are to meet in three heat races at different distances.

The amateurs will start the sport with a ten-mile open race.

HORSE NEWS TRACK GOSSIP

Ruth Dillon (4) (2:06½) is booked to start the season at Detroit.

* * *

The good race mare Grace Keller (2:09¼) has been bred to Aquilin (2:19¾).

* * *

The West Virginia circuit has furnished another new 2.10-er in Mimic (2:09¼).

* * *

Fred C. holds the season's trotting record over a half-mile track by his mile in 2.11¼ at Hamilton, Ohio.

* * *

Blacklock (2:04½) promises to be a sire of early and extreme speed. A two-year-old by him recently paced in 2:12.

* * *

With his trial of 2:08¾ it looks as though Jack McKerron (2:23¼) would have something to say in the slow class races.

* * *

Sterling McKinney (2:06¾) is credited with having stepped the last quarter of a 2:08 mile in 28½ seconds, and last half in 1:00.

* * *

The Huntsman (2:13¼) marched off a mile in 2:09¼ the other day. The last quarter was in 30¼ seconds.

* * *

Harry Dillon (2:27¼), the four-year-old son of Sidney Dillon, that lately showed 2:13 for Millard Sanders, will be saved over until next season.

* * *

Demonio Wilkes, a green one, by Demonio (2:11¼), stepped a couple of trips in 2:09¾ and 2:09½ for Henry Helman at Pleasanton, Cal., recently.

* * *

Josephine (2:07½), by Zolock (2:05¼), last season's fastest four-year-old pacer, was lately caught a mile right at her record and finished at "a runaway clip," at the Los Angeles track.

* * *

Phoenix, Ariz., has been admitted to the Great Western Circuit and as it hangs up two $5,000 purses will likely get some of the big liners. The association will also hang up some $2,000 and $1,000 purses.

* * *

That Major Mallow horse is certainly doing things to the half-mile track records down South. His third heat in 2:06¾ ties the third-heat record for a two-lap track, held by Prince Alert since 1899.

* * *

The much-touted California trotter Kid Wilkes was beaten in his first start of the season after he had won a heat and taken a record of 2.11¼.

18 INNINGS AND NO RUNS IS NEW GAME RECORD

DETROIT, July 17.—The great game of baseball played here yesterday is the one subject of conversation in sport circles. For nearly three hours and a half Detroit and Washington battled, and when darkness put an end to the combat at the end of the 18th inning, neither side had been able to score.

The little crowd of only a few more than 3,000 persons left the field, each man convinced that he had seen the greatest game which had ever been played in a major league.

Summers, who pitched the entire game for Detroit, was the hero of the contest. He started the game in rather doubtful condition, having just returned from Mt. Clemens, where he has been undergoing treatment at a sanitarium. Jennings was on the eve of relieving him at several points in the contest, but each time he begged the privilege of finishing it out. His pitching improved, if such a thing was possible, as the game progressed and at the close he retained absolutely perfect control and was showing no sign whatever of weakening.

The terrific clip told on Gray, Cantillon's original selection, and he retired in the ninth inning before the first man up had been retired, after yielding but one hit in the first eight periods. His side had been seriously strained and he felt himself slipping.

Groom, who relieved him, maintained almost the same uncanny mastery over the hard-hitting Tigers. His control was not of the best, but his lapses were always followed by an immediate brace, and his feat in the 15th of retiring the Tigers' strongest batters after the bases had been filled with none out was probably the gamest performance of the entire day.

NEW MANAGER TALKS PLANS WITH DOVEY

Harry Smith, the Doves new manager and President John Dovey had a long session this morning at the club office, the new boss having issued orders for no morning practise at the South End Grounds.

Manager Smith has just returned to the Doves from his stay at home on account of injuries received in a game at St. Louis on the Western trip, when his knee was spiked.

He and President Dovey went over the situation thoroughly, and it is understood that Smith will have the whole say in regard to the players, the signing and releasing of them.

Smith said, after his talk with the president, that he will make no radical changes in the team and will have the same men in the field as performed for former Manager Frank Bowerman. However, he made a slight shake up in the batting order and placed Coffey in third position. The youngster has been batting fifth, following the clean up man and now, by the new order Bill Dahlen will perform in that place. Dahlen will continue to play second base, Smith says, until Dave Shean gets into the harness and even then may keep up the work as his hitting is right up to the dot. The new change in the batting order put Roy Thomas in second position.

President Dovey said: "When Frank Bowerman turned in his resignation I was ready to accept it and it did not come as a surprise at all to me. In fact I had been sort of suspecting it right along and it didn't take me long to accept it.

"I don't understand why Frank says he was angered at the Johnny Bates deal, for he was right with me when it was pulled off. He seemed to think it was a good move. I think the deal will prove most beneficial to the team, for we need twirlers, and Thomas will look after the left garden in place of Johnny.

"Bowerman will not play any more with the Doves, but I have not by any means unconditionally released him. Frank may be sold to some one of the other clubs, for he is still a useful man behind the bat."

Frank Bowerman said to-day:

"I leave with the best of feeling toward John Dovey and all the players."

"Last year, when I was able to go out and play a good game of ball I was treated like a prince by the fans. This is the best city in the country to play ball in, and I'm sorry to leave. I did the best I could do with the team, and I know that personally I have fallen off in my playing, but that is the result of having the burden of management on my shoulders.

"I've played in the big leagues for twelve years, and in all that time I never struck such a good place as Boston. The fans here are the best in the world. They know the game and appreciate a man's work.

"I want to tell the Boston fans, now that I'm done, that I will always remember how well I have been used by them."

BOXING BITS OF NEWS

Young Corbett is working at Shannon's, at San Rafael, which has been dubbed as a "jinks" training camp. The last four fighters who trained there lost their battles—Neil, Erne, Cross and Jack (Twin) Sullivan. It was not so when the "Old Master" occupied the camp.

* * *

The reports are coming good and fast now about Ketchel not being in proper trim for his fight with Papke. One says Coffroth was scared to death for fear Ketchel would injure himself chasing around nights in his machine. Jim is working on a finish fight for the pair, and is in hopes of landing it before Ketchel fights Johnson. A Ketchel victory by the knockout route would warm the fans up to the Johnson thing again.

* * *

The newsboys' benefit, which takes place at American League park on July 24, will have a few notables of the ring present, who will don the mitts. Papke, Nelson and Attell are positive to appear.

* * *

Jeffries and Johnson and Langford and Ketchel appear to be the big battles that are wanted by the public to-day. The heavyweight battle would draw around $60,000 on the Coast right now, and the pictures, if they turned out to be good, would be worth a fortune alone. The Britt-Nelson pictures turned in close to $100,000.

* * *

Johnson and Langford together would not be much of a drawing card, for the two colored men never have been money getters from a box office standpoint. Gans and Walcott, when they were at their best, only drew an ordinary house in Frisco when they went twenty rounds to a draw. It is something like $6,000.

* * *

Phil McGovern and Goldman to a finish. Couldn't get a better pair for the distance, for they have already put up four rattling bouts of from six to ten rounds. If McGovern is willing, the bout will come off within a few weeks.

* * *

In a letter from the Coast a fan says since the poor result of the Papke-Ketchel fight, the Corbett-Frayne go Saturday will not draw the money that was expected. Coffroth was in hopes of getting $5,000 with the bout, but will be satisfied with $3,000 now. Corbett has about worked off all the fat and is down to 136 pounds.

STRAIGHT DOPE FOR SPORT FANS

A. L. WEEKS, THE HUMAN CALOPtenus spretus (that'll send you to the dictionary), has evidently stirred up something with his challenge to hop any Boston hopper a hopping match at a hundred yards. Now comes Henry McNutt and deposes that he is something of a hopper himself. Henry scorns the idea of a hopper of merit tackling any such minor league distance as 100 yards, and shies his castor into the arena for a match at fifty rods. Here's Henry's letter, and it is hoped that some promoter will frame up the bout:

> Straight Dope, BOSTON AMERICAN:
> I see in the paper where a waiter challenges anyone to hop 100 yards. I drive a milk wagon and am nineteen years old, and get my training hopping out of the wagon. I have hopped from the grocery store to the cider mill in a minute. I should say it is about sixty rods. If he will race me a longer distance, say fifty rods, I will do it.
> HENRY I. McNUTT.

That puts it up to the hopping kid. And here's a pointer on training, which was sent in by a man who apparently speaks from the heart, or pocket, which are usually located pretty close together. This one probably will be shown to you at lunch, and if it is, dig up:

> Sporting Editor AMERICAN:
> Can you give me the address of the restaurant where A. T. Wicks, the Hopping Kid, is employed as a waiter? I think I know of a way to make him lower his own record. Just put a twenty-five-cent tip on the table and start him from the kitchen. He'll beat the flag. I am a waiter myself, just from New York, and I must say I never saw a stingier bunch in my life than the eaters in Boston restaurants. If Wicks sees a tip I'll bet he will excell his mark, if he doesn't drop dead.
> GARCON.

SOMEONE HAS DONNED HIS KIDDING scenery and is trying to hand the bunk to my old friend Mutt. Might as well quit before he begins, for none of the bookies have a chance to increase their girth at the expense of the old sport. During Mutt's temporary sojourn in the booby hatch he asks that his voluminous mail be looked after, and here's a sample of it, which arrived this morning:

> My Dear Mutt;
> I have been reading with interest of your success in life and want to offer you my best wishes. I am always with a fellow when he is out and down, and so have always followed you with a kindly interest. You seem to be on the inside of the game, notwithstanding the fact that you have been incarcerated in the giggling ward. Treat the warden kindly and you will find him a good game warden.
> Would you be so kind as to tip me off when things look right to you? Folly Levy has had his whiskers trimmed twice now, and I am wearing my beard long. You can get me at 664 Back Bay any day from 4:30 to 5 a. m. Would you kindly consider loaning me sixty cents for a while? Hastily,
> D. OWN ANDOUT.

IF YOU WANT TO SEE SOME SPORT that's really worth while take in the second installment of the athletic meets for boys, arranged by the 1915 committee. They will be held in East Boston, Roxbury, Jamaica Plain and Brighton this afternoon, and at each place will begin at 2 o'clock.

YACHTING IS THE THING THESE days with the smart set, says Elizabeth Elliott, and I reckon she knows. After reading some of that "Oh, for the Sea" business we hunted up our old blue flannel shirt and yachting cap and tried to look nautical sitting around the fountain in Chester square, but it didn't work. After being mistaken once for a messenger boy and another time for a street car conductor, we passed up trying to break in.

> Sport Dope, Boston American:
> Will you kindly tell me something about the game of squash, how it is played, how a squash court is laid out, etc. A friend of mine from England has been visiting me and has been telling me what a great game it is. How much does it cost to build a first-class squash court?
> GEORGE EVANS, Brookline.

I'm not very well up on squash, George, except at the boarding house, where we have it every Thursday evening. The dope book shows that it is an English game, and judging from that it is about as exciting as cricket. It is played——, but here's the answer to your last question first, and if you don't back up on this, come again; a good squash court can be built for little more than $2,000. I'm going to stick to croquet.

DOPE THIS OUT TO SUIT YOURself and see what choice you figure for Boston's tar baby with Ketchel, Papke, Johnson, Kaufman et al:

Papke had his hands full in a ten-round bout with Jim Flynn, a heavyweight, at Los Angeles, Wednesday night. Papke did not score a knockout, but he did the bulk of the fighting except in the third and sixth rounds, when Flynn knocked the Dutchman clear through the ropes. Flynn was about ten pounds heavier, but was outclassed. Langford knocked Flynn out in a punch last Winter, while Kaufman stopped him in nine rounds, and Johnson did the trick in eleven.

ROXBURY FAN.—I MUST REFUSE to pan Umpire Kane for his decisions in the ninth inning of yesterday's game. It is very much minor league to grill the umpire, and besides that, I know of my own personal knowledge that Stevie is a pretty tough guy to talk sassy to—built something along the lines of Tim Hurst, you know. While in Boston he stops at the Commonwealth Hotel, if you care to go around yourself and tell him what you think of him. It might be well for you to remember, however, that he's from Kentucky, and kind of quick-tempered.

WELL, MIKE, HERE'S TO YOU. YOU are a good old scout, but sadly up against it trying to make the Doves a winning team. May you get the best that's going, wherever you land. Harry Smith may do better as a manager, but he'll have to have a freer hand in the signing and releasing of men in order to accomplish much.

THAT FERGUSON BOY PITCHED some ball against the Cubs yesterday. Twelve strike-outs against such heavy hitters as that bunch is going a whole lot, and should have won—BUT it didn't.

ATHLETIC GIRL. MISS MARTHA Gardner holds the woman's record for 100 yards over the hurdles, made at Vassar College in 1906. It's a good enough game for boys, but I don't think much of it for girls. You had better stick to playing jacks, or get a pair of sharp scissors and take to cutting paper dolls.

> To the Baseball Editor, Boston American:
> Dear Sir:
> To oblige one of your readers will you kindly let me know in your question column, the pitchers on the staff of the New York Highlanders the Summer of 1907.
> Thanking you in advance. Yours very truly,
> E. S. S. T. S.

Here they are: Chesbro, Orth, Hogg, Newton, Kitson, Doyle, Neur and Griffith. There were others who came and went, but these are the ones who stuck through.

Notes of the Doves' Game

The Cubs got a lead right off the reel by putting Evers around in the first round.

* * *

Beck played centre field in place of Beaumont. Ginger has been playing steadily and a day off doesn't seem out of the way.

* * *

The trade of Bates and Starr for Brown, Richie and Shean took effect yesterday. Bates and Starr were not in uniform and Bad Bill Dahlen was at second base. It is to be hoped that Bill will try to play for he can if he wants to.

* * *

Each team got a hit in the first inning and then the Cubs failed to solve Ferguson until the fifth, when Hofman got a scratchy single through Sweeney. The Doves were hitters for eight rounds.

* * *

Kroh fanned Coffey in the fifth frame and then served three to Stem which Kane labeled strikes.

* * *

It looked like Ferguson was going up according to schedule in the sixth as Evers ripped a double and then Fergy gave Sheckard a pass. He pulled himself out of the hole by fanning Chance and making Steinfeldt roll an easy one to Sweeney.

* * *

The storm evidently worried Mr. Kane, for he slipped up on several decisions. He was especially bad in the eighth frame, when he called balls on Steinfeldt that looked pretty much like strikes. It robbed the Doves of an even chance to win, as they scored one run in the ninth. The decision was so raw that the usual quiet fans were greatly aroused.

* * *

Cecil Ferguson set a record for strike-outs this season. He fanned twelve men during the nine innings. His pitching would usually have been winning ball.

* * *

Archer suffered greatly by Fergy's good twirling, and fanned four times out of four trips to the plate. Kroh whiffed on three occasions.

DIRECTUMWOOD AND GO SEE GO IN MATCH

A neat Summer racing card is announced by the Dorchester Driving Club for Saturday afternoon at the Franklin Field Speedway, seven events being listed, in the principal one of which the pacers Directumwood and Go See will renew their battle of a week ago, when all unhobbled pacing records were smashed for the course. Krispen, Red Echo, Charlena and Queen Wilkes are in condition to keep the crowd on tip-toes till their final heat has been decided.

THE JAP AT HARTFORD.

W. P. Maloney has shipped the white trotting gelding The Jap, 2:14¼, owned by M. E. Sturgis of New York, to Hartford, and will finish his preparation over the Charter Oak track. The Jap is down for a mark of 2:10 or better this season.

1915 ATHLETES HOLD FOUR BIG MEETS TO-DAY

Four districts of Boston have their first athletic meets in the Boston 1915 series to-day, and with the grounds in the best of conditions from the rains it is expected that the meet will excel that of last week, both in the number of entries and in the point of spectators. East Boston, Brighton and Jamaica Plain and Roxbury are the districts represented by the boy athletes.

The East Boston meet will be on the Wood Island Park playground, which is exceptionally well fitted for the contests. James H. Crowley, instructor in the department of school hygiene, who has been working hard to get a large number of boys entered in to-day's events, will be in charge. Through his efforts four relay teams have been organized and entered, and, as four different districts of Noddle Island are represented, it is expected that some lively racing will result.

The Roxbury and Jamaica Plain districts will hold their meet together on the Marcella street playgrounds, and in the relay races the rival teams will be selected from the opposing sections. Already considerable friendly opposition has developed among the boys of both places. This meet will be under the direction of John D. O'Reilly, the well-known coach.

The Brighton boys will meet on the North Brighton playground and there is a good-sized list of entries. This meet will be under the management of William C. Matthews, well remembered as the shortstop of a recent Harvard nine.

GOLF GOSSIP NEWS OF THE LINKS

No one knows what potion had been given the youngster, but one thing was certain, that A. G. Lockwood's caddie in the first day's play at Essex persisted in going to sleep. When Mr. Lockwood reached a green the caddie would hand him a putter and race off to the next tee. After the hole had been played and Mr. Lockwood and Mr. Kedian repaired to the next tee to drive there was the caddie asleep on the ground beside the sand box. No wonder Mr. Lockwood handed in "No card."

During the Spring the Brockton Country Club has altered its course considerably, and the players who go down to their open tourney, August 27 and 28, will play a different course from the one they visited last year. Half of the bunker on the first hole has been removed and a sand trap substituted in its place. The fourth has had a sand trap added, while the seventh, that little hole with the circular bunker around it, has been turned into an undulating green with a sand trap directly in front of it and four traps around the green. The course has been much improved by these alterations, and more will be made, to complete the system of trapping the whole course, which the committee is working on.

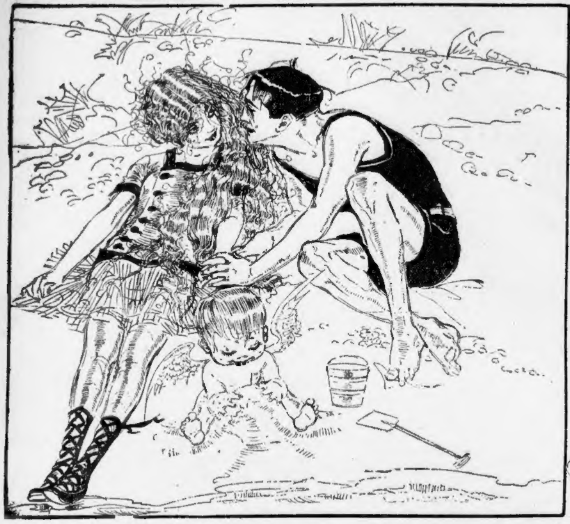
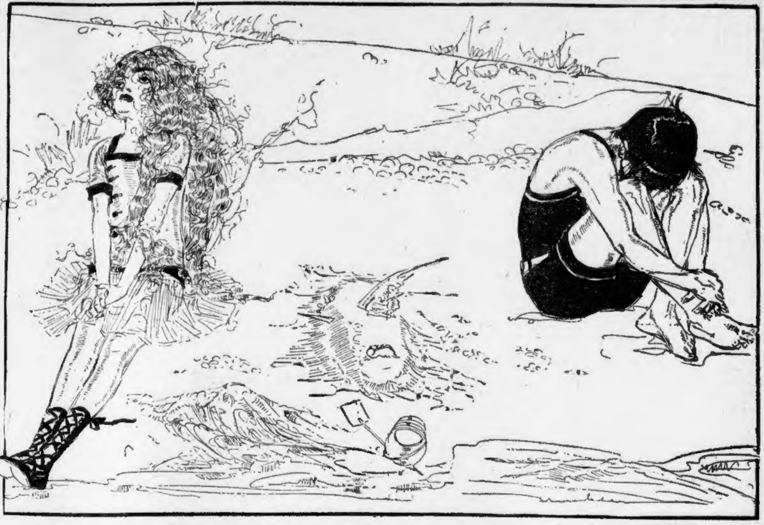
A Summer Flirtation ☙ ☙ ☙ By Nell Brinkley



In the beginning a Billy and a Betty play at love on the warm, white sand, with Cupid happy near them.



And in the end they are tired of each other—but desolate for Love, who lies in a sand-grave, patted down by them.

THE beaches and the eternal Hills are bumpy with the mounds of buried Loves! Poor little Loves; little Summer Loves that only lived through butterfly time and turned up their toes when trunks were crammed with tired, crumpled Summer frocks, and suit cases began hiking back to town.

Kids bury their rings, and dead birds, and marbles, and bugs—but grown-up folks bury Love. And, like the Kids, they sometimes put him in the hole and heap him up just in fun, to see if they can find him again.

And some of 'em never find him, and they go away with that little hidden thing in the backs of their hearts and a wondering about it until they die.

And some of 'em find him again and dig him up just to find him with broken wings, dead.

A Billy and a Betty with her hair drying in curls over her cheeks play at love all day long in the tumbling surf and on the warm white sand—play with laughing, and the flash of eyes into eyes, and the little hand-pattings and whisperings and poutings and songs and flatterings and promises that make for the game; and a little Love with his wings tucked up hums aimless, amorous little tunes and builds sand-castles.

That's the beginning.

And this is the end. The shabbiness of the going Summer, the dreary, still air with the wine gone out of it, the silence and the slow heart-beats of the spent world; a forlorn lass and a solitary man; both weary, both a little sad; tired of each other, but desolate for Love, that builded his sand-castles. And that same poor little Love in a sand-grave, patted down with their hands, with a wing and a toe sticking out like a dead bird after a wind storm. And the rising tide licking his castle back into itself.

Please, if you do love well and much, don't play at hiding it away. Little quarrels are only the play-funerals of Love, but some day when you heap the sand over him you'll dig him out with soiled wings and glazed eyes and his legs stiff.

NELL BRINKLEY.

Woman's Envy Begets Gossip

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

TWO over sensitive and hysterical young women have committed suicide because they were unjustly criticised and made subjects of scandal by evil-minded people. One of these young women was in Italy; one in New York; and both left letters saying they died in order to prove their innocence.

We must feel deep sympathy and genuine sorrow for these young women; and we must feel indignation toward the wretched beings who caused such tragedies by their venomous tongues. When we read how one of the scandal-mongers, though the wife of a man of genius, has been sent to prison and made to pay a fine as well, we can only be glad that justice in this case has meted out a part of the penalty deserved. But it is to be hoped that public sympathy for these dead girls will not start an epidemic of suicide among morbid-minded young women who suffer from the criticisms of their acquaintances.

It is far braver and nobler to live and prove one's innocence than to die to prove it.

Both of these young women could have brought their traducers before a court of justice for defamation of character; and they could have justified themselves living as they did in dying.

Prove or Pay the Penalty

Every loose tongued man or woman who indulges in gossip should be brought before the party accused and made to state the source of information; when the gossip is traced to its source the originator should be made to prove the statement or pay the penalty.

There are vicious men and women in the world, whose unmolested association with the young breeds contamination.

It is sometimes necessary to put out a danger signal when such an individual enters a community. To be utterly silent is a sin of commission. But whoever knows facts which justify such a danger signal should be brave enough to speak them, when put to the test.

To some women, too many, alas! the sight of youthful beauty and joyous spirits is like the shaking of a red rag in the face of a bull.

Older Women Are Jealous

They seem to think that a malicious fate intends to insult them as they fade in the afternoon of middle life, by placing them in comparison with fresher and fairer flowers. And so they strive to prove that these fair flowers are poisonous and dangerous to the community in which they grow.

There is no time of life when a woman is more beautiful than in her maturity, if she cultivates the great virtues, generosity, sympathy, love and kindliness. And there is nothing which can so soon destroy all beauty as the baser thoughts and emotions.

A man knows when a woman is envious and petty, even when he hides his knowledge from her and seems to agree with her. Many a man, to save a scene and to appear loyal to wife, mother or sister, will take the side of injustice and affect to believe in another woman's unworthiness, while in his heart he despises the motive which led to the situation.

Scandal is a criminal offence.

The law protects men and woman from those who seek to defame their characters.

Let all victims of gossip use the law and stay alive to enjoy the vindication of their characters.

It is a longer process than suicide, but far more sensible.

Do Women Dress to Please Men? No, Sir

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"IF pleasing man is the principal aim of woman's dress to-day, its designers must have a poor opinion of the taste and susceptibility of men."

These are the words of a writer on the editorial page of one of the daily newspapers. And who, most potent, wise and grave Sir Editor, dare positively declare that she does dress to please man?

If she dressed to please man she wouldn't please him, for he preaches one style of dress and then runs after the woman who doesn't wear it.

I know one man who thinks a woman never looks so well as when she puts a white apron over her dress. But you can't very well go to a baseball game or the opera in a white apron, can you?

Another man talks very grandly about the neat little horsehair bonnet that he would design for all women, young and old, its chief value to lie in the fact that it would last ten years.

Another thinks women should never wear hats and none of them really know what the- are talking about, so there you are.

Women Are Modest in Dress

Every woman is pleased when a man, especially if he be the one man, admires her gown or hat. She knows that it is not the gown that he admires, but her in it.

But when it comes to goin- forth clad in new raiment it is the opinion of her own sisters she dreads, not that of mere man.

It is said by some that the present style of woman's dress is immodest. That is true, so far as extreme styles like the sheath skirt are concerned, but has one single well-dressed woman been known to wear the sheath skirt?

A bathing suit may stop at the knee, but it must not be cut low in the neck, whereas an evening gown may be cut low, but think of the howl of protest if it only came to the knees.

Man Is Inconsistent

When the women of ancient Greece wore one long, flowing garment, no one considered it immodest, but if the women of Boston walked up Tremont street clad likewise they would be arrested.

If man would attend more carefully to the beam in his own eye he might not have so much time to spend in extracting the mote from the woman's.

The fervor with which he attends to her soul's salvation and morals would be extremely gratifying if it were not so unnecessary.

Poor woman, she does have a hard time trying to please that creature of inconsistencies, man. It is immodest that her dress should fit well—it is immodest that it should resemble a Mother Hubbard.

A man will fuss and fuss until his clothes are a perfect fit, but if woman fusses she is accused of vanity and an undue love of dress.

On the whole it is a good thing that we do not dress to please men, else we would be worn to frazzles trying to suit their many whims.

Little Bobbie's Ma This Time

By W. F. Kirk

LAST nite Ma sed to Pa, I am to hevvy. I am going to reedoos. I am going to diet & lose all my wate. My frend Blanche lost twenty pounds in twenty days. That's nothing, sed Pa, thare was a Englishman at our club last nite, in a poker game, that lost twenty pounds in twenty minutes. He sed it was the last twenty pounds he had.

I am not joking, sed Ma, I mean it seerius. I am going to diet for three weeks. I doant want you to change yure shape, sed Pa. I luv you the way you are. Honest I do, sed Pa.

But Ma sed she was going to diet anyway & this is what she toald Pa she was going to have for her three meels. For brekfust, a slice of toast, vary well done. For lunch, a slice of toast, rare. For dinner, two slices of toast, medium, & a pickel. That is what my frend Blanche ate (8) for three weeks, sed Ma, & she lost twenty (20) pounds, as I was telling you.

That will be grand, sed Pa. Try it & see how it works. In the meentime, sed Pa, I am going to stick to my old time meels, wich is usually sumthing like this: For brekfust three lamb chops, six slices of toast, three eggs & two cups of coffee. For lunch, three mutton chops, a order of baked potatoes, & a cup of tea. For dinner, a cocktail, sum supe, sum fish, a large steak, a salad, sum dessert, sum coffee & a big black cigar.

So this morning Ma tried her new brekfust. Pa & me had the saim brekfust wich we always have. Wen Ma brought in the brekfust she was telling Pa all about how soon she wud be a slim gurl like the way she was in the days wen she won Pa's luv, & then she began to eet her slice of toast, well done.

This is the only way to live, sed Ma, monst peepul eet too much. I guess thay do, at that, sed Pa. Bobbie, sed Pa, let me help you to one of these lamb chops. See the butiful gravy oozing out of it, Bobbie. Go to it, sed Pa. Thare is five moar whare that came from, & all the time Ma was eeting her dry toast. Have another chop, Bobbie, sed Pa. Thay are delishus. & have sum of these fine poached eggs. They will make your hair git curly, Pa sed.

So Pa & me ate (8) all the nice things & Ma ate (8) her dry toast, & then Ma beegan to cleer away the plates. Thare was two (2) chops left on the plate wen Ma took it into the kitching, & Pa asked me to cum with him & peek thru the kitching door, & we boath peeked & we saw Ma eet the two chops. She was eeting them awful fast, so Pa & me wuddent cum in the kitching & catch her. Then Ma caim back into the dining room & sed to Pa It is a pity that you & Bobbie cuddent have stuffed all that meet into you but in a way I am glad, beekaus thare was a starving cat out in the court & I threw the other two chops to her. That is vary sweet of you, sed Pa, I am glad you fed the starving cat. Then Pa laffed & I laffed, & Ma got mad. I saw whare the chops went, sed Pa. But from this time on, Pa sed to her, doant talk to me about diets. Eet all you want, & if the worst cums to the worst, & you git so fat that I beegin to notis it, you can put on one of them strate-jacket corsets & I will stand for it.

So Ma is going to git a straight-jacket corset sent up to the house C. O. D. & wen it cums up, Pa is going to send it back.

I hoap Ma keeps on eeting her toast, tho, beekaus the moar Ma diets, the moar chops & eggs thare will be left for me.

P. S.—Jes wen I was going to finish this story I went out in the kitching to git a drink of water & I saw Ma eeting three (3) eggs. No wunder Ma wants to diet, beekaus it gives her such a fine appy-tite.

On the Watch.

WITH infinite precautions as to the words they used, and even as to the tones of their voices, Larsan and Rouletabille discussed for a long time Mr. Arthur Rance's appearance at the chateau, and his past in America, about which they expressed a desire to know more, at any rate, so far as his relations with the Stangersons. At one time Larsan, who appeared to me to be unwell, said, with an effort:

"I think, Monsieur Rouletabille, that we've not much more to do at the Glandier, and that we sha'nt sleep here many more nights."

"I think so, too, Monsieur Fred."

"Then you think the conclusion of the matter has been reached?"

"I think, indeed, that we have nothing more to find out," replied Rouletabille.

"Have you found your criminal?" asked Larsan.

"Have you?"

"Yes."

"So have I," said Rouletabille.

"Can it be the same man?"

"I don't know if you have swerved from your original idea, said the young reporter. Then he added, with emphasis: "Monsieur Darzac is an honest man!"

"Are you sure of that?" asked Larsan. "Well, I am sure he is not. So it's a fight then?"

"Yes, it is a fight. But I shall beat you, Monsieur Frederic Larsan."

"Youth never doubts anything," said the great Fred laughingly, and held out his hand to me by way of conclusion.

Rouletabille's answer came like an echo: "Not anything!"

Suddenly Larsan, who had risen to wish us good-night, pressed both his hands to his chest and staggered. He was obliged to lean on Rouletabille for support, and to save himself from falling.

"Oh! Oh!" he cried. "What is the matter with me?—Have I been poisoned?"

He looked at us with haggard eyes. We questioned him vainly; he did not answer us. He had sunk into an armchair and we could get not a word from him. We were extremely distressed, both on his account and on our own, for we had partaken of all he dishes he had eaten.

He seemed to be out of pain; but his heavy head had fallen on his shoulder and his eyelids were tightly closed. Rouletabille bent over him, listening for the beating of the heart.

My friend's face, however, when he stood up, was as calm as it had been a moment before agitated.

"He is asleep," he said.

He led me to his chamber, after closing Larsan's room.

"The drug?" I asked. "Does Mademoiselle Stangerson wish to put everybody to sleep to-night?"

"Perhaps," replied Rouletabille; but I could see he was thinking of something else.

"But what about us?" I exclaimed. "How do we know that we have not been drugged?"

"Do you feel indisposed?" Rouletabille asked me coolly.

"Not in the least."

"Do you feel any inclination to go to sleep?"

"None whatever."

"Well, then, my friend, smoke this excellent cigar."

And he handed me a choice Havana, one Monsieur Darzac had given him, while he lit his briarwood—his eternal briarwood.

We remained in his room until about 10 o'clock without a word passing between us. Buried in an armchair Rouletabille sat and smoked steadily, his brow in thought and a far-away look in his eyes.

On the stroke of 10 he took off his boots and signed to me to do the same. Standing in our socks he said, in so low a tone that I guessed, rather than heard, the word:

"Revolver."

I drew my revolver from my jacket pocket.

"Cock it!" he said.

I did as he directed.

Then moving toward the door of his room, he opened it with infinite precaution; it made no sound. We were in the "off-turning" gallery. Rouletabille made another sign to me which I understood to mean that I was to take up my post in the dark closet.

I retired into the dark closet. I found myself perfectly situated. I could see along the whole length of the gallery. Nothing—absolutely nothing—could pass there without my seeing it. But what was going to pass there?

My hand closed on the butt of my revolver and waited. I am not a hero, but neither am I a coward.

My friend had told me that probably nothing would occur before midnight or 1 o'clock in the morning. It was not more than 11:30, however, when I heard the door of Arthur Rance's room open very slowly.

At that moment I noticed a strange sound, three times repeated, coming from the park. Ordinarily I should not have attached any more importance to it than I would to the noise of cats on the roof.

But the third time, the mew was so sharp and penetrating that I remembered what I had heard about the cry of the Bete du bon Dieu.

Directly afterwards I saw a man appear on the outside of the door, and close it after him.

Arriving at the window, he peered out on the park. The night was now light, the moon showing at intervals. The Green Man raised his arms twice, making signs which I did not understand; then leaving the window, he again took up his package and moved along the gallery toward the landing-place.

☙ An Old Tune ☙

By ANDREW LANG

THERE is an air for which I would disown
Mozart's, Rossini's, Weber's melodies—
A sweet, sad air that languishes and sighs
And keeps its secret charm for me alone.

Whene'er I hear that music vague and old,
Two hundred years are mist that rolls away;
The thirteenth Louis reigns, and I behold
A green land golden in the dying day.

An old red castle, strong with stony towers,
The windows gay with many-colored glass,
Wide plains and rivers flowing among flowers,
That bathe the castle basement as they pass.

In antique weed, with dark eyes and gold hair,
A lady looks forth from her window high;
It may be that I knew and found her fair,
In some forgotten life, long time gone by.

MANY an India-Ceylon tea has too much flavor.
The effect on the palate is a certain heaviness that is not agreeable for afternoon tea drinking.
Our "Orange Pekoe" India-Ceylon is marked by delicacy and fragrance rather than by high flavor.
It is the most exquisite of afternoon teas.

GLIDDEN TOUR DRIVERS REST IN MILL CITY

By J. C. KERRISON.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 17.—The Glidden tourists are now in the hands of their friends, namely, the members of the Minneapolis Automobile Club. These latter took full charge of the visitors as they reached the gate of the Twin City, since which time there has been no cessation in the entertainment of the men from the four sections of the country.

The strenuous road work has for the time been forgotten, and for the next two days nothing but real pleasure and rest will be considered by those who are in search of honor in either the Glidden, Hower or Detroit trophy contest. This morning the visitors were taken out to Fort Snelling where a military dress parade was viewed by the visitors.

This afternoon a special harness race between Dan Patch and Minor Heir will be witnessed at the Savage Farm, and in the evening there will be an illuminated parade of motor vehicles, the locomotorists expecting to turn out over 1,500 cars.

The run of 177 miles from La Crosse to this city was one of the pleasantest of the trip, it being nothing more or less than a joy ride. The roads were excellent and the scenery beyond description, comprising at one time a touch of Berkshire and then prairie scenery. The farms are of greater magnitude than anything seen in the East, proving an object lesson to those who live in large cities. Wheat fields extend for miles and miles. Some of the crops are ready for reaping while others are just budding into life.

There are just two big hills, but their surfaces were by no means as bad as those encountered the previous day, and none of the cars had any great difficulty in climbing them. Coming through the country the tourists were given a royal reception, there being a party at almost every crossroad, and it reminded the older tourists of the trip through Canada some few years ago.

"A Few Are Skimming Off the Cream"

A Good Deal of Truth in That Statement by James J. Hill

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

A strong man is the big railroad builder, James J. Hill. He has opened up millions of acres of land to cultivation; he has BUILT railroads, not merely speculated in them.

He thinks and talks frankly about conditions. The other day he came back from his travels, had a talk with Mr. Taft, and then gave an interview on the crops, the tariff, and so on.

He said just one thing to which we call especial attention . He was talking about the trusts and the big men that fatten their pockets with the help of the tariff, and he said: .

"A few are skimming off the cream of the earnings of the many."

James J. Hill will never say anything more important, more descriptive of conditions all over the world, than that.

The trouble, East and West, in Europe as in America, is in that "skimming of the cream" from the earnings of the many.

A man by hard work gets perhaps two dollars a day. He doesn't get what he has earned—far from it. And when he spends his money, the part of his earnings that comes to him, he doesn't get what that money should buy.

If he wants to buy a woolen suit for himself, a part of the cream is skimmed off by selfish interests protected by high tariff.

If he wants to buy cotton stockings for his children, he must pay twenty cents for that which should be bought for twelve—protected American manufacturers skim off that much cream.

Fifty per cent. is taken off what a man should earn, to begin with, by the system under which intelligence and cunning exploit labor.

And of the 50 per cent. remaining, at least half is skimmed off by money-making devices and contrivances—trusts, tariffs, impure, adulterated foods, and even dishonest weights and measures.

Mr. Hill might well elaborate that brief saying. Conditions will not change until strong men like Hill shall decide to change them. They WILL so decide, eventually.

In days to come, when the railroad building is over and the big industries are established, we shall see the powerful men like Hill—even like Morgan and Rockefeller—taking pride no longer in unnecessary millions accumulated, but striving for the honor of making human beings happier and giving to the man of inferior ability his rights and the full result of his labor.

Will the Horses Lose Their Jobs?

If Mr. Edison has not allowed his scientific imagination too loose a rein—as he has sometimes been known to do in enthusiastic moments—a great event has happened in the perfecting of his long-sought storage battery.

If he really can trundle trucks across country and through the streets at the low cost and high speed that he claims, he has performed a work comparable to the invention of the cotton gin, the spinning jenny or to his own achievement, the incandescent light.

Greater than the victories of war or the discoveries of geographical exploration are the new tools put into the hands of the working world. They press outward the frontiers of human experience and add new continents to the realms of nature.

But what will Mr. Edison's new storage battery do to the horse market, to the Missouri mule and to the whole catalogue of animated traction interests?

Is the patient beast of burden, so long the helper and companion of man, at last about to receive his definite quietus?

Mr. Edison seems to think so. And, after all deductions have been made for the oversanguine hopes of genius, Mr. Edison is too substantial a man and stands at too high an altitude of accomplishment to utter opinions and promises without weight and portent.

Airy wishes have never been known to turn into horses. But the wish of the Wizard of Menlo may turn horses into air, and even beggars may ride.

Mr. Taft's Important Omission

Recently, at the dedication of a Congregational church on Capitol Hill in Washington, Mr. Taft made an interesting speech.

The President warmly approved the "institutional" character of the church in question—its equipment with a swimming pool, gymnasium and so on—saying that it is a part of the mission of religion and churches "to furnish rational amusement."

Most people, in these new times of discounted puritanism and the lapse of religious austerities, will applaud the genial sentiment of Mr. Taft.

But there are some who will regret that the President didn't improve his appropriate opportunity to say something about mixing religion with business as well as with pleasure.

It is a fine thing to consecrate a swimming pool; but how about a railway pool?

It is excellent to sanctify the dumb-bells; but what shall we do with the dummy directors?

The real call of the churches at this particular moment is not to get people to take religion less seriously—but more so.

ARE THERE SPIRITS?

Ever since the world began the ablest minds have been trying to answer this question. What do you YOU think about it? Whatever your views, you cannot afford to miss the remarkable scientific article in the

Libel Suits and Human Activity

A LIBEL suit is the appeal which a man makes to the courts to come to the relief of his threatened and perhaps tottering reputation.

Whatever a man may be, he admires respectability and likes to be thought well of. It is a common thing for people to be more worried about their reputations than about their characters.

A touchy sensitiveness to what others say about us is a bad symptom. It may not mean that we feel ourselves deserving of the criticism that they pass upon us. But, be that as it may, it suggests that absence of interior robustness that creates a certain fidgety timorousness and a consciousness of not being inwardly a match for even perhaps the unmerited blows that are dealt us.

It is like the impulse that prompts the gardener to place props around the tree that he seeks to preserve, not because he thinks the tree is falling into decay, but because there is not stuff enough in the stock nor tenacity enough in the root to hold it erect when the wind blows.

Resort to a libel suit becomes thus a kind of tacit confession of one's own lack of confidence in himself.

Wind Will Not Damage a Tree Well Grown

If a tree is well grown and deeply rooted, it not only is not damaged by the wind; rather is it nourished by it and rendered more stalwart and is made more of a tree because of it.

Whether the issue of such a suit be the acquittal or the conviction of the defendant, it is, in either case, a demonstration of the fear which the plaintiff has of having hard things said about him, and of the unsettling influence so exerted upon him.

The greater the amount of damaged money he asks from the court the more extensive the repairs that he thereby confesses to be necessary in order to put him into good shape again, exactly as in the case of a building that is so loose-timbered as to have had its timbers sprung and its joints strained by a storm; the more carelessly the building was originally put together the larger the sum of money the owner will have to lay out before it will be safe and comfortable enough to live in and tight enough to keep out the weather.

The interesting information has reached us over here in Italy that Mr. Bingham, Commissioner of Police in New York, is seeking to secure from Judge Gaynor the considerable sum of $100,000 for the repair of damages.

In looking out from a quiet spot on Lake Como upon the great bustling world, in the midst of which this quietness is placed, one is set querying as to what all the world's bustle is for; what it is really that people are trying to do; what the final meaning is of the sharp competitions, the fierce antagonisms and the hot ambitions that compose so much of the life of men in the less civilized parts of the world, and especially in its more civilized portions.

Situated at this moment 3,500 miles from America, one can almost hear the racket and hubbub of its activities. And now the question is, what are those activities for?

Men are born, and after a while they die. Between times they sit up late, rise early and spend the interim wrestling with themselves, with one another and with the hard problems and bitternesses of life.

This has been going on for a good many centuries—sixty at any rate, perhaps six thousand—and the pace is all the time becoming more rapid, the strife and strain more tense, the grating of the machinery more harsh.

Whither is it all tending? Animals consume one another; we consume the animals; time, struggle and death consume us. We feed on the fruits of the earth, and after we are buried the fruits of the earth will feed on us.

Nothing Is Lost; All Enters the Woof

It seems as difficult to discover in it all a distinct thread of purpose as it would be to discover such a purpose in the involved activity of a honey bee. Its cell is framed with a marvelous and even a scientific skill, although itself unacquainted with that skill and quite ignorant of the aim which it is itself pursuing. And why not we?

The coral leaves behind it its little bones, and somehow the slow accumulations of coral remains shape themselves into oral forms of beauty, of which no coral, and no number of corals, could ever have had a presentiment. And why not we? How much is a man better than a coral?

That nothing is lost, but that everything is somehow gathered up and woven into the final issue, is what men believe in their best moments, and what men believe in their best moments is probably true.
